More music, merchants for Aug. 13 'LeatherFest'

BY DOUG HARRISON The Acton Tanner

The more things change, the more they stay the same.

That's the adage Leathertown Festival organizer Janis Fread carries each year whens she holds out her hand for help.

"When it's a great day, which it will be, and a success, which it will be, it's very, very gratifying at the end of the day," she said last week, while working feverishly at wrapping up preparations for this year's event on Aug. 13.

in association with

What isn't satisfying is all the preparations for the Leathertown Festival, which begin in February.

"Getting people to help out during the year is the hard part. On the day of the event it's okay. It's so difficult when you don't get people out to help," Fread went on.

"Some people will say 'let's do this' but they never bother to come out. We've got some new blood and new ideas this year, but unfortunately we're still a small group."

Joining the tireless troika of Fread, Wetherby's owner Jo Lister and Ellie Tuitman, who returns as entertainment co-ordinator, are Blooms Away's Olev Richling as head of publicity, along with Hide House boss Steve Dawkins and merchants Jake and Ron Kuiken, who are rounding up vendors.

New to the Festival this year are two musical centres—the regular setup in the Hide House parking lot and the other in front of the medical centre on Mill Street - which will be closed for the first time this year to let downtown businesses offer their products to the anticipated 3,500 revelers.

"We wanted something different this year, so we decided to change the area of music. We're hoping to raise money in sponsorship and vendors to pay for having the different entertainment come in," explained Fread.

So far four businesses — Superior Glove, Eagle Ottawa Canada (formerly Blackhawk Leather), Watkins Products and Four Directions Gallery in Georgetown have come forward as cash sponsors for the fourth annual event.

Out for this year's festival are line dancers and double-decker bus, while pony rides, over 24 craft vendors, demonstrations from leather crafters, 12 community group vendors, games, cloggers, square dancers and the Agricultural Society's candy floss machine are confirmed.

Also new this year is the addition of a church service by Baptist Church pastor Tom Cullen from 11 am to noon. Councillor Gerald Rennie returns as the BIA event's M.C., while disc jockey Ree-Run will open ceremonies at noon.

The remainder of the afternoon entertainment on stage is as follows: 12:15 to 1:15 pm — Mike "Kleckerhead" Koehler (the funniest, goofiest juggler around); 1:15 to 3 pm — Wayne Farrier Dixieland Jazz Band; 3 to 4 pm — Cheri Lindsay Dance Studio performers; and the Acton Citizens' Band from 4 to 5 pm.

Big Brothers now has Acton phone number

Special to The Acton Tanner Scribble down this number: 853-5902.

You have the Big number to change the life of a boy from a father-absent home.

Give this number to a man you think would make a good Big Brother or pass it along to someone who could work behind the scenes to enhance the functions of the agency.

The Big number means Big Brothers of Halton is reaching out to Actonites with a direct line hook-up to our main office.

The number means Big Brothers is always there for you - just a phone call away.

This means Big Brothers is renewing the agency's commitment to improving services in all parts of Halton.

This number is Big Brothers' way of saying every boy from a father-absent home is important.

Big Brothers can help, but not without you.

The phone number is just the first stage in Big Brothers' move to create a permanent residence in Acton.

Starting in the fall, with the beginning of the new school year, Big Brothers will become more than a number, when the agency opens an office at McKenzie-Smith, which will be staffed one day each week by a caseworker.

A number of programs will be offered at the Acton office, including group, one-on-one, mentor and after-school programs.

Questions, needs, concerns, call today: 853-5902.

When you're launching or towing your boat, be aware of overhead power lines. With your boat on a trailer, the mast can reach higher than you might think. If you're not careful, your mast or antenna could hit a power line. And that could be fatal. Even when you're on the water, watch for power lines crossing rivers or channels. Although > your hydro company has buried or rerouted many overhead lines near boat launching areas, there may still be overhead lines crossing the roads that lead to the water. So please sail safely. Even when you are on land.
