New 'travel' owners

"Acton residents will find that we're very much a community-involved agency."

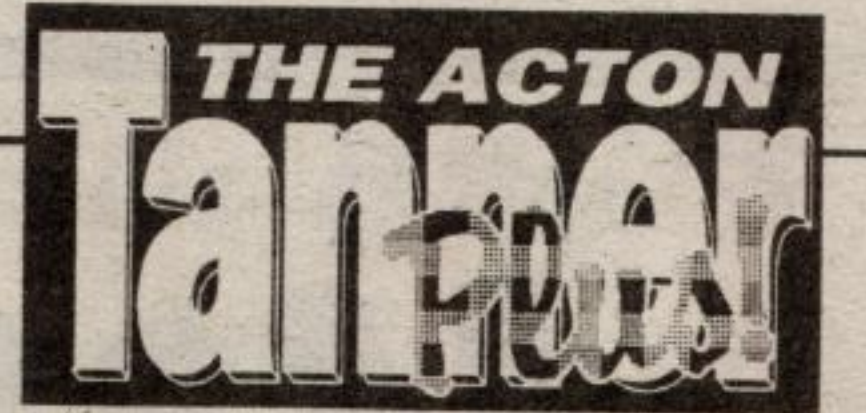

That's the prediction of former National Hockey League referee Bruce Hood, who recently purchased Acton Travel from Rob and Sophie Warrington.

Hood, who also owns travel agencies in Milton and Oakville, actually has a long history of involvement in Acton.

"I've been in business here before, I've refereed here, played minor hockey here, and I was even in the Acton Citizens' Band for a short time," he explained last week.

Hood already has moved new equipment into the agency's Mill Street office. New computers and a new decor are coming soon.

"It's good to be back," said Hood. "We'll be announcing our grand opening next week!"

EXCITING NEWS!

GRAPE VINE

Acton Travel sold

Our friends at Acton Travel, the Warringtons, have advised us of a change in ownership at the Mill Street travel agency effective this week.

The new owner is former NHL referee Bruce Hood, who also owns Bruce Hood Milton Travel along with an Oakville agency.

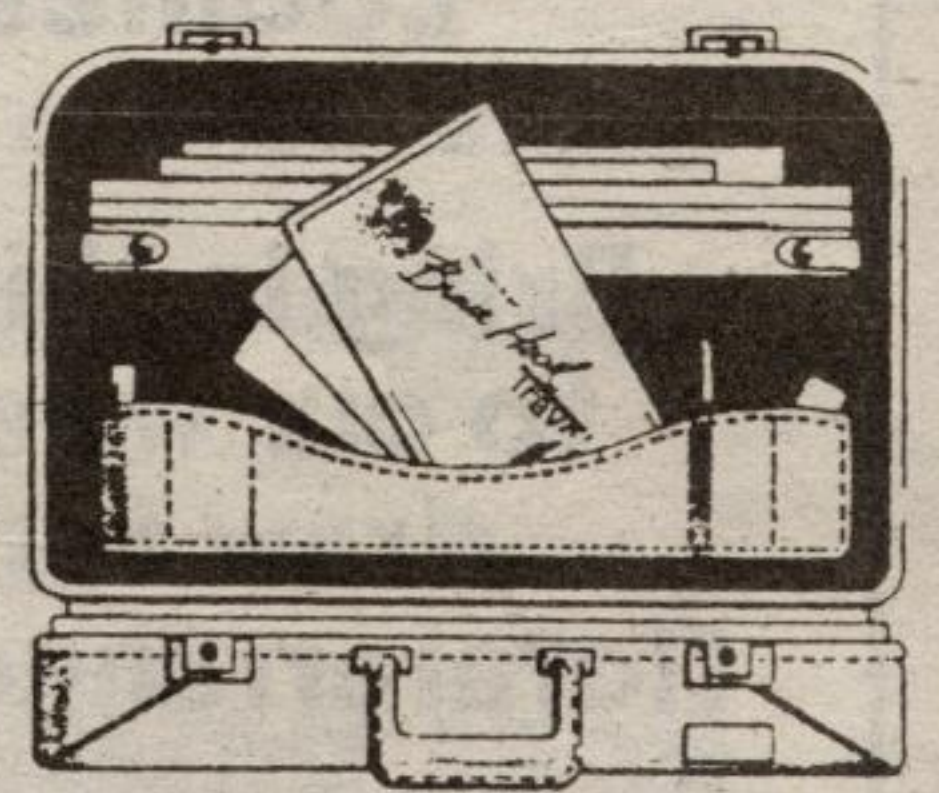

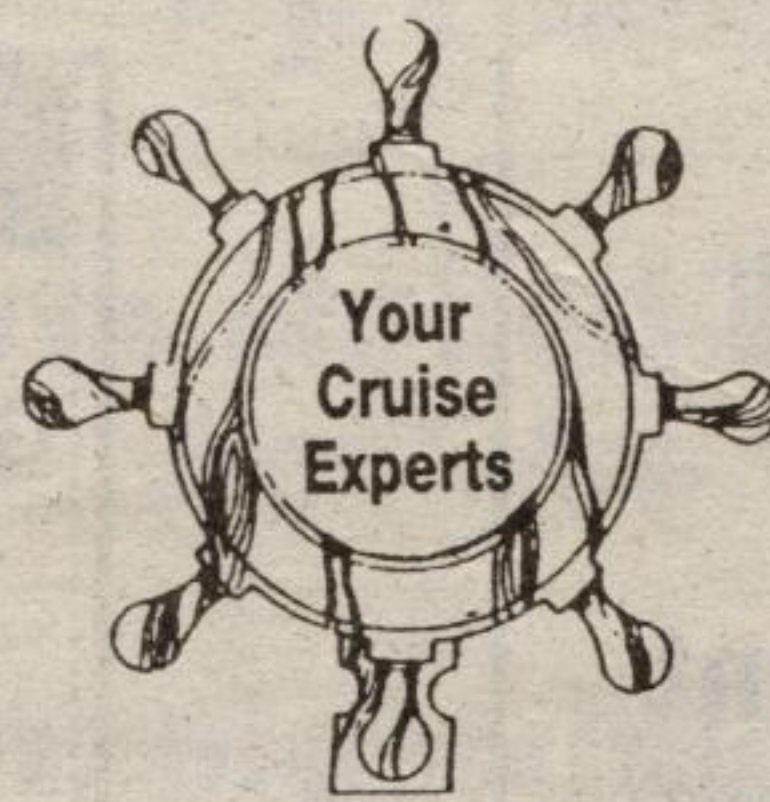

Yes, it's true
 – a referee finally makes a good call
 – deciding to come to ACTON!

You may not have agreed with all his calls in the National Hockey League, but people agree with his calls for travel service at his offices in Milton and Oakville – and now ACTON!

It's your call now ... Sophie Warrington, Paula Bertrand and Kelly Scott are here to serve all your travel needs. New equipment, office refurbishing, getting ready for new computers – wow! Watch for our official opening and look for our ad in next week's Tanner!

Lots of prizes!
