

Sr. Redmen v-ballers 3rd at Rebels tourney

Bob McKay says his Senior Redmen Girls' volleyball team is on schedule in the development of their five attacker, one setter offensive system.

A 6-2 mark in pool play and a third-place overall finish at last Wednesday's early bird tourney at Georgetown High would attest to this notion.

The Redmen knocked off Heart Lake (Brampton), White Oaks, Burlington Central and Iroquois Ridge in pool play before sweeping Erindale in the quarterfinal but bowing to the host Rebels in the semis.

"Our core of eight veterans can play. They impressed me in staying with the good teams and didn't let them intimidate us," says McKay, who is carrying only three rookies.

"The girls are getting more confident in the system. I knew our defence would be good."

The locals silenced the critics and the Georgetown gym with a stunning 15-12 upset to open the semifinal.

However, McKay points out, the Redmen stood and observed the Rebels - who dressed nine of 11 club players (one provincial) - play their game in a quick 2-15 Game 2 defeat.

Game 3 appeared to be anyone's in the early going. But as the game progressed, the Redmen were gift-wrapping free balls to the Rebels and failed to mount an attack at the net. Score it 15-7 Rebels.

"I would love to play a team with that calibre once a week," reveals McKay, a teacher at Georgetown High. "It would make you play the game right, and raise our level of play."

McKay prided himself last week on giving all his players ample floor time. Against Heart Lake, which boasted three provincial players, the local coach made numerous changes in Game 2 (a 15-9 loss) after a 15-4 win to open the tourney.

The Redmen also looked strong against the Wildcats from White Oaks, last year's semifinalists. Despite the absence of setter Jenn McKay and premier power Jen Goy (school commitments), the Redmen played the Oakville to 15-13, 11-15 matches.

They ended round-robin play with two sweeps - 15-4, 15-2 over Central and 15-6, 15-5 over Oakville's Iroquois Ridge which showcased a club player.

Peewee Canes are storming

The Halton Major Peewee Hurricanes hockey team is on a tear, having won two straight on the weekend.

On Sunday in Milton, Acton's Joel Petkoff had one assist in the 12-2-1 Canes' 4-1 win over Oakville.

Petkoff scored and set another in the locals 3-2 shading of Niagara Falls in Erin on Saturday night.
