

Batteries in toys can be unsafe

Batteries in toys can lead to dangerous situations. To prevent injuries related to batteries in toys, follow these guidelines:

- Follow all warnings and instructions carefully.
- Make sure all batteries are installed correctly and not in a reversed position.
- All batteries used in a toy should be of the same age and type. Do not mix and match older batteries with newer ones or alkaline with carbon or rechargeable with non-rechargeable.
- Only charge batteries that are intended to be recharged, otherwise it could result in rupture of the batteries.
- Teach children battery-operated toy vehicles with wheels should never be put newar hair as it can get caught and pulled into the wheels of the vehicle. • Do not allow a child to sleep with a battery-operated toy.
