

Eco Logic aids U.S. Energy Dept.

Rockwood company ELI Eco Logic Inc was recently awarded a contract from the U.S. Department of Energy for the treatment of hazardous wastes, radioactive mixed low level wastes and explosives such as TNT.

The contract is also coordinated with several elements of the U.S. Department of Defence. It's a multi-phased, multi-year approach to addressing the two departments' stored waste inventories.

The Eco Logic process uses non-incineration technology with a focus on protecting the environment. The ultimate objective is to provide cost-effective solutions to the hazardous wastes and energetics-explosives of the two U.S. departments.

"We believe that the Eco Logic process represents a truly significant solution to the treatment of the large inventory of hazardous wastes," said Dr. Nicholas Trentacoste of Science Applications International Corporation. "The Department of Energy and the Department of Defence's combined budgets for the remediation of these wastes annually amounts to several billions of dollars."

The contract complements work Eco Logic is doing with the U.S. Army in the area of chemical warfare destruction, said Dr. Douglas Hallett, president and CEO of Eco Logic.

The Very Best in Local Dining!

Visit these fine area restaurants and experience the best in local dining!

- Harrop Restaurant -

The Harrop Restaurant & Gallery is an elegant colonial mansion built of local limestone in 1870 on a 200-acre grant of Crown land.

The Harrop specializes in fine dining for parties of two to 40 in intimate dining rooms. A traditional continental menu includes favourites such as Atlantic salmon in phyllo pastry with Pernod cream, rack of lamb, steak and seafood dishes. Chef Roy Banks offers traditional roast prime rib of beef with Yorkshire pudding on weekends, and his Sunday brunch is always well-received. Open daily for lunch and dinner.
