Clean your fuel system

Vehicle owners should properly prepare their cars against unforeseen problems before setting out on a vacation trip this spring.

One potential problem is keeping the car's fuel delivery system clean and operating efficiently. With fuel injection being the dominant fuel delivery system in today's cars, it is important to keep the system clean.

Because a fuel injector nozzle is roughly about the diameter of a human hair, it takes just a small amount of deposit to clog the injector and limit free gas flow.

To help prevent this, auto technicians recommend using a fuel additive to help ensure trouble-free driving. Simply adding a bottle to a full tank of gas every 4,000 kilometres will help prevent deposits from coming back.

Fuel delivery problems are not isolated to cars with a fuel injection system. Older cars which use a carburetor can also benefit from using a multi-purpose fuel additive. It cleans deposits from carburetors and, when used regularly, can also help eliminate water in the fuel delivery system.
