

Breakfast with champions

Transportation, health, education and preserving and maintaining services and quality of life were high priorities. The restructuring of local government was very low in priority for Halton residents. On March 30, The Greater Toronto Services Board will be meeting to complete its review and determine which of the four options it will be presenting to the provincial government on April 20. Chairman

Savoline intends to keep on defending Halton from falling prey to options two, giving the GTSB planning control over Halton, three, moving all Regional Services to the GTSB, or four, that of a directly elected GTSB Council.

"You the citizens and businesses of Halton have not been consulted. The GTSB can only make a recommendation to the Minister of Municipal Affairs on its future. It will up to the Province to decide whether or not to implement these recommendations. I encourage you to become involved in this issue and speak directly to your MPPs and to support your Mayor and me on this issue."

United protest for too-little funding

Rockwood resident Art Davis leads the parade of farm vehicles to the Agriculture Canada Building on Stone Road in Guelph on March 14. Farmers nation-wide voiced their disappointment with the small amount of assistance offered by the federal government.

Care for a Moonlight Howl?

Special to The Compass

The Upper Credit Humane Society (UCHS) is a non-profit registered charity. It is funded by public donation and fund-raising projects organized by volunteers. A silent auction and dinner is the major annual fundraiser; all funds go to the care of the animals and towards the building of a shelter in Erin to begin during the summer of 2001.

The UCHS serves a number of local communities including Alton, Acton, Belfountain, Caledon Village, Erin, Georgetown, Hillsburgh, Norval, Orton, Ospringe, Rockwood, Terra Cotta, and everything in between! The Society houses healthy, adoptable animals until they can be placed in permanent homes. There is no time limit on their stay with the organization.

The UCHS is holding its second annual "Moonlight Howl" Silent Auction and Dinner Dance on April 7, at the Caledon Country Club. For information on purchasing tickets or donating to the event, please call 1-519-927-5152.
