BRASS TACKS – Editorial

Long time readers of the Compass will quickly notice something missing this month.

After almost five years, Cindy Lunau's Council Notes will no longer be carried in our monthly newspaper.

When The Compass was first born in March of 1998, Councillor Lunau was the only one of us who possessed any newspaper experience through her tenure as editor of the old Nassagaweya News.

Needless to say, the rest of us leaned heavily on her as we took those first few faltering steps as a monthly publication. She provided the foundation as month by month The Compass was built and evolved.

However, with plans for expansion looming in the Spring of 2003 for the newspaper, and next year a municipal election, the time has come to put Council Notes to rest. Neither Councillor Lunau or the Compass need the aggravation of any party asserting she has any sort of a political advantage with her ties to the paper.

That said, I will take the liberty to thank Ms. Lunau from the bottom of my heart for her sound advice, unbridled enthusiasm and unflinching support through the first few difficult years after the Compass was launched.

Good luck Cindy in all your personal and political endeavours. Thanks for the bumpstart!

Town of Milton
Ward 3 Councillor
Cindy Lunau

The staff of the North Halton Compass wishes its readers the very best during the Holiday Season!

The Connectors

The North Halton Compass would like to congratulate the Parents Council of Georgetown's Glen Williams Public School. Their monthly newsletter The Connector was recently awarded a national Award of Merit from the Canadian Association of Communications in Education.
