Marion Tubman, who retired from teaching school in Rockwood, still lives in Eden Mills with her daughter and granddaughter. Marion's brother Milton attended the Rockwood Continuation School and then took the old radial line train to Guelph High School. He went on to be the principal of a large Hamilton school and the author of several elementary school books.

Jim Watson took up the blacksmith trade in Campbellville and practised for many years in Rockwood. In later years he ran the BA service station in Arkell, Puslinch Township. Watson Road was named in his honour when he died in 1962 - the last of the original Watson family members.
