

Heritage comes alive at Milton's Steam Era

The Gas Power Tractor display.

The antique Rumely Oil Pull Tractor attracted a lot of attention.

Steel Pulleys and gears from a 40,000 lb steam Tractors – some of the largest and heaviest ever made.

This past Labour Day weekend the Milton Steam-Era took place at the Milton fairgrounds. Devoted members who strive for the preservation and restoration of heritage equipment came out to show a glimpse of the past with demonstrations and shows.

Steam engines were puffing their way around the grounds in a marvelous display of turn of the century technology in a recreation of life in the rural community 100 years ago.

It was a chance for yesterday's generation to slip down memory lane as well as a chance for the younger generation to catch a glimpse at a way of life almost lost with the march of growing technology.

Back to School

Keagan Flower, a Junior Kindergarten student attending Chris Hadfield Public School, was the winner of Milton Mall's "Win Stuff for School" contest. Keagan won a $250 shopping spree at the mall, plus selected his school to win an additional $250 in school supplies. School staff chose to purchase electronic equipment for their school, at Radio Shack. Congratulations, Keagan, and best wishes to all students and local schools, from Milton Mall.
