

Discover scenic historic Glen Williams

By ELAINE THOMAS

Fall is a perfect time to take a trip into the beautiful village of Glen Williams, situated a stone's throw from Georgetown, on the Credit River. The village, founded in 1825 boasts many original buildings, some dating back to the 1840's.

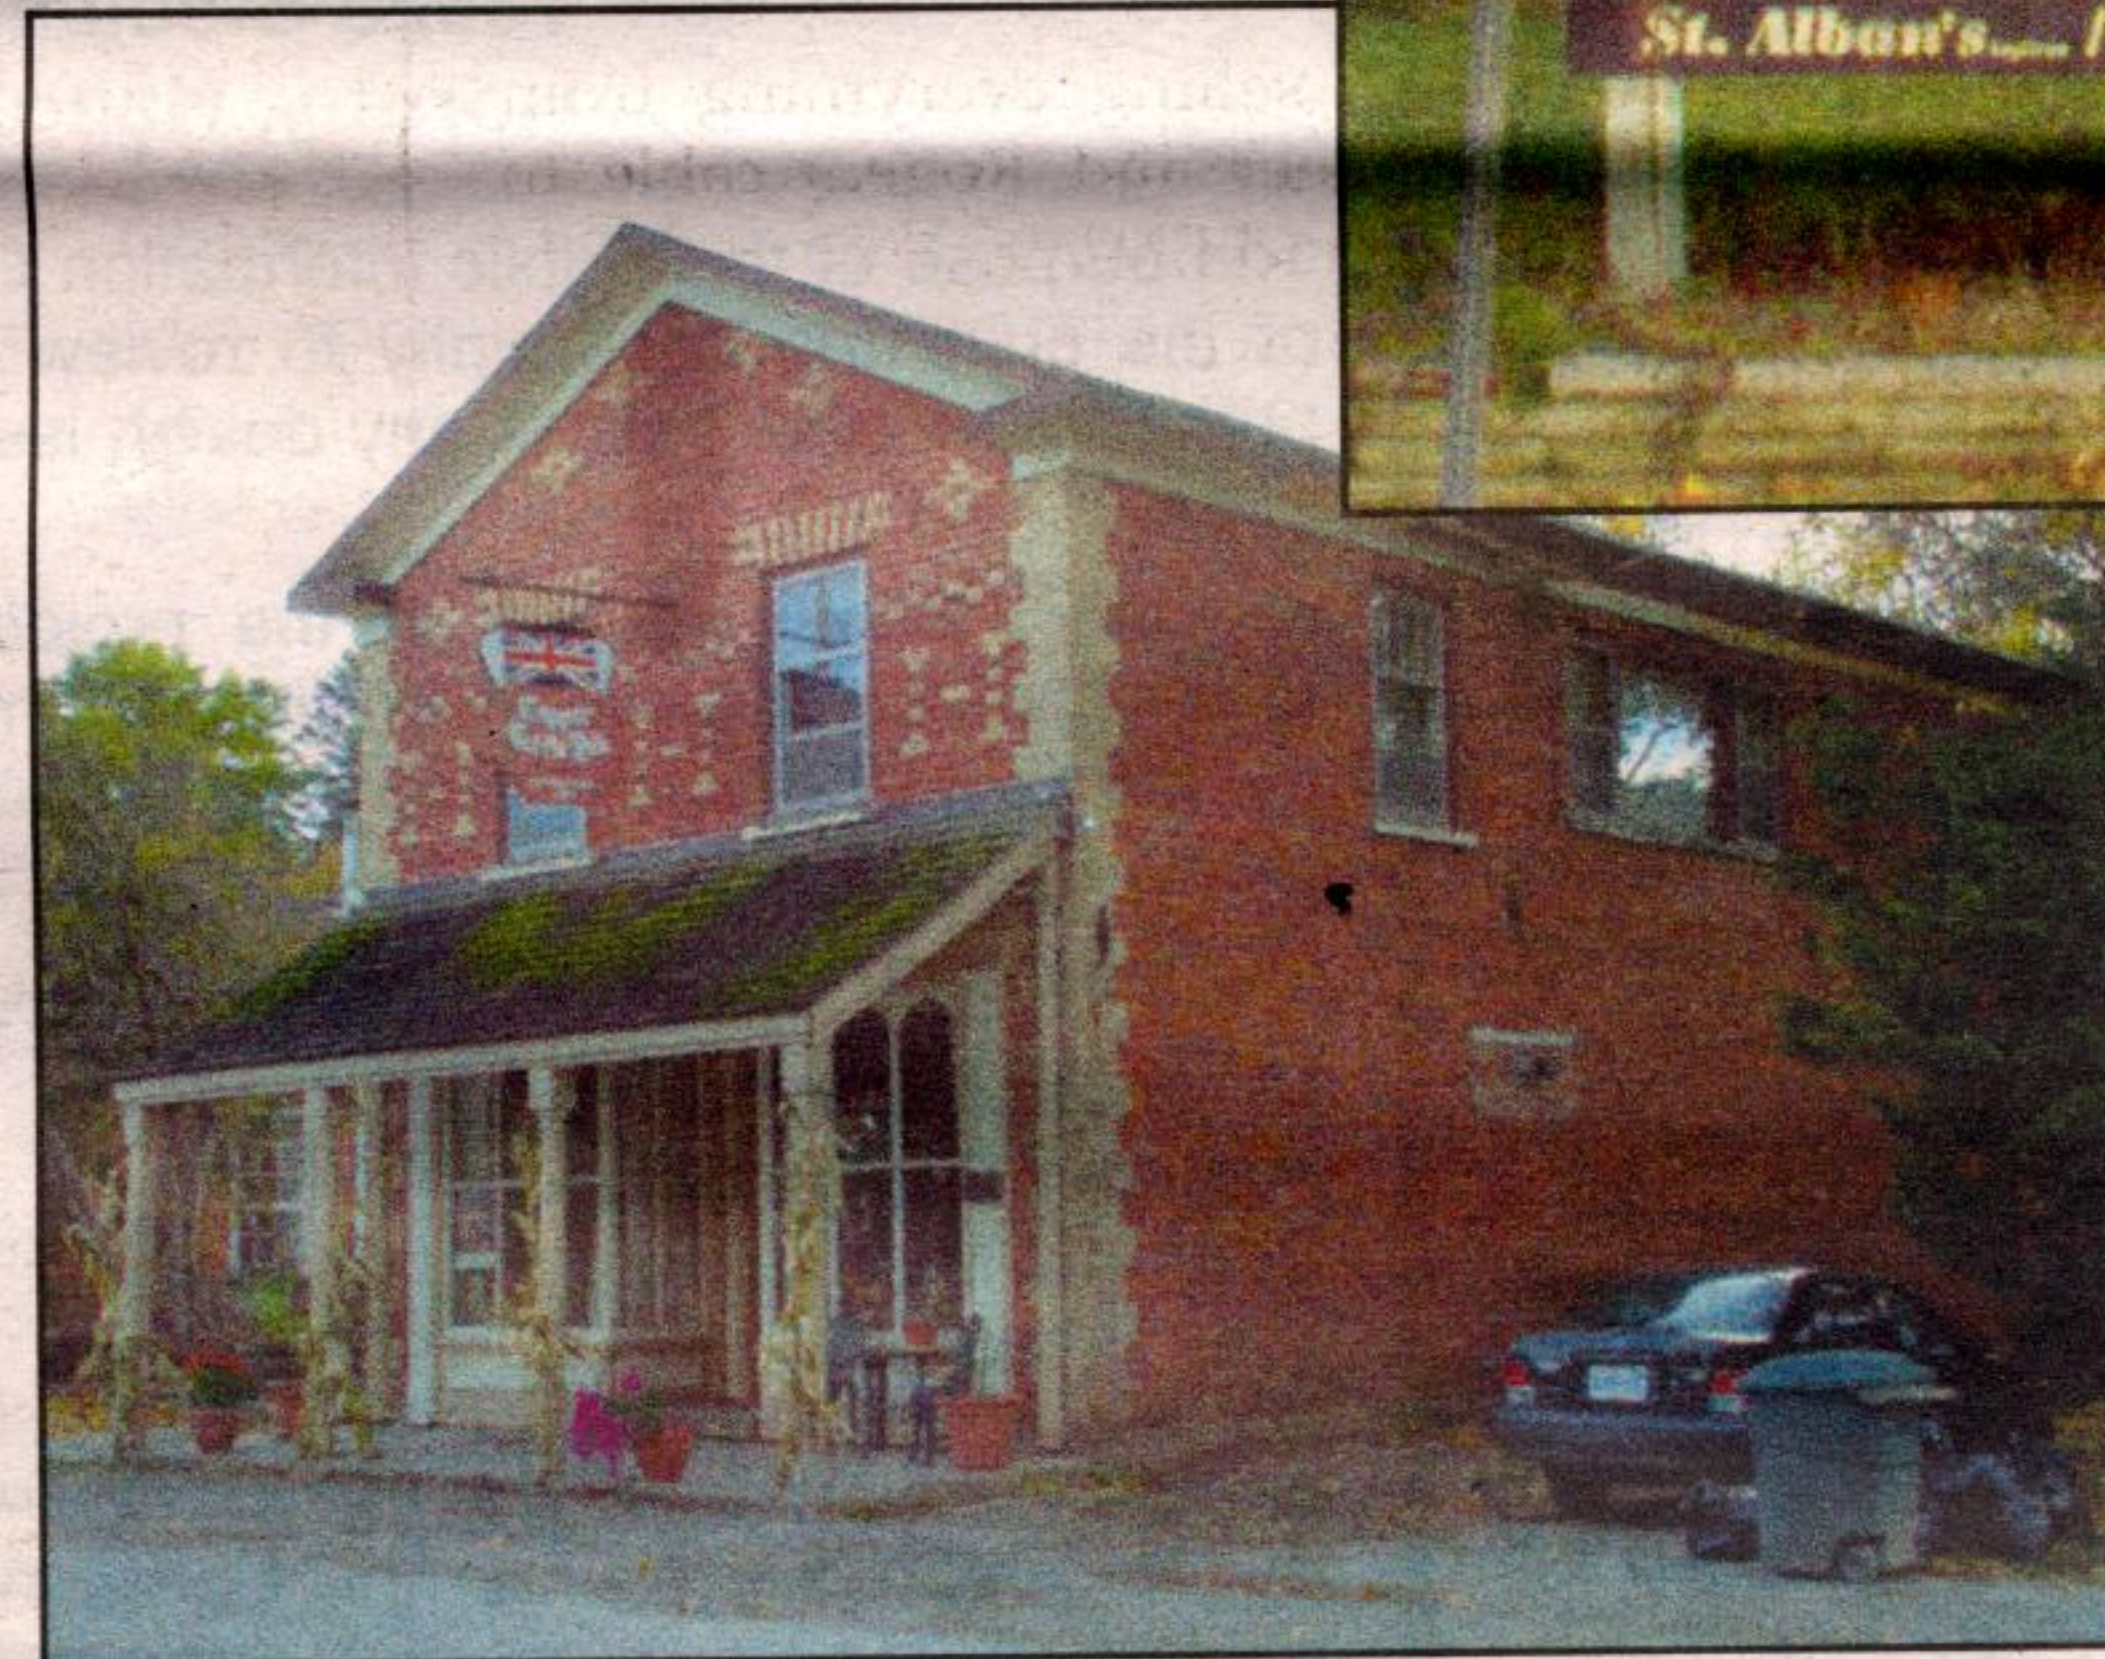

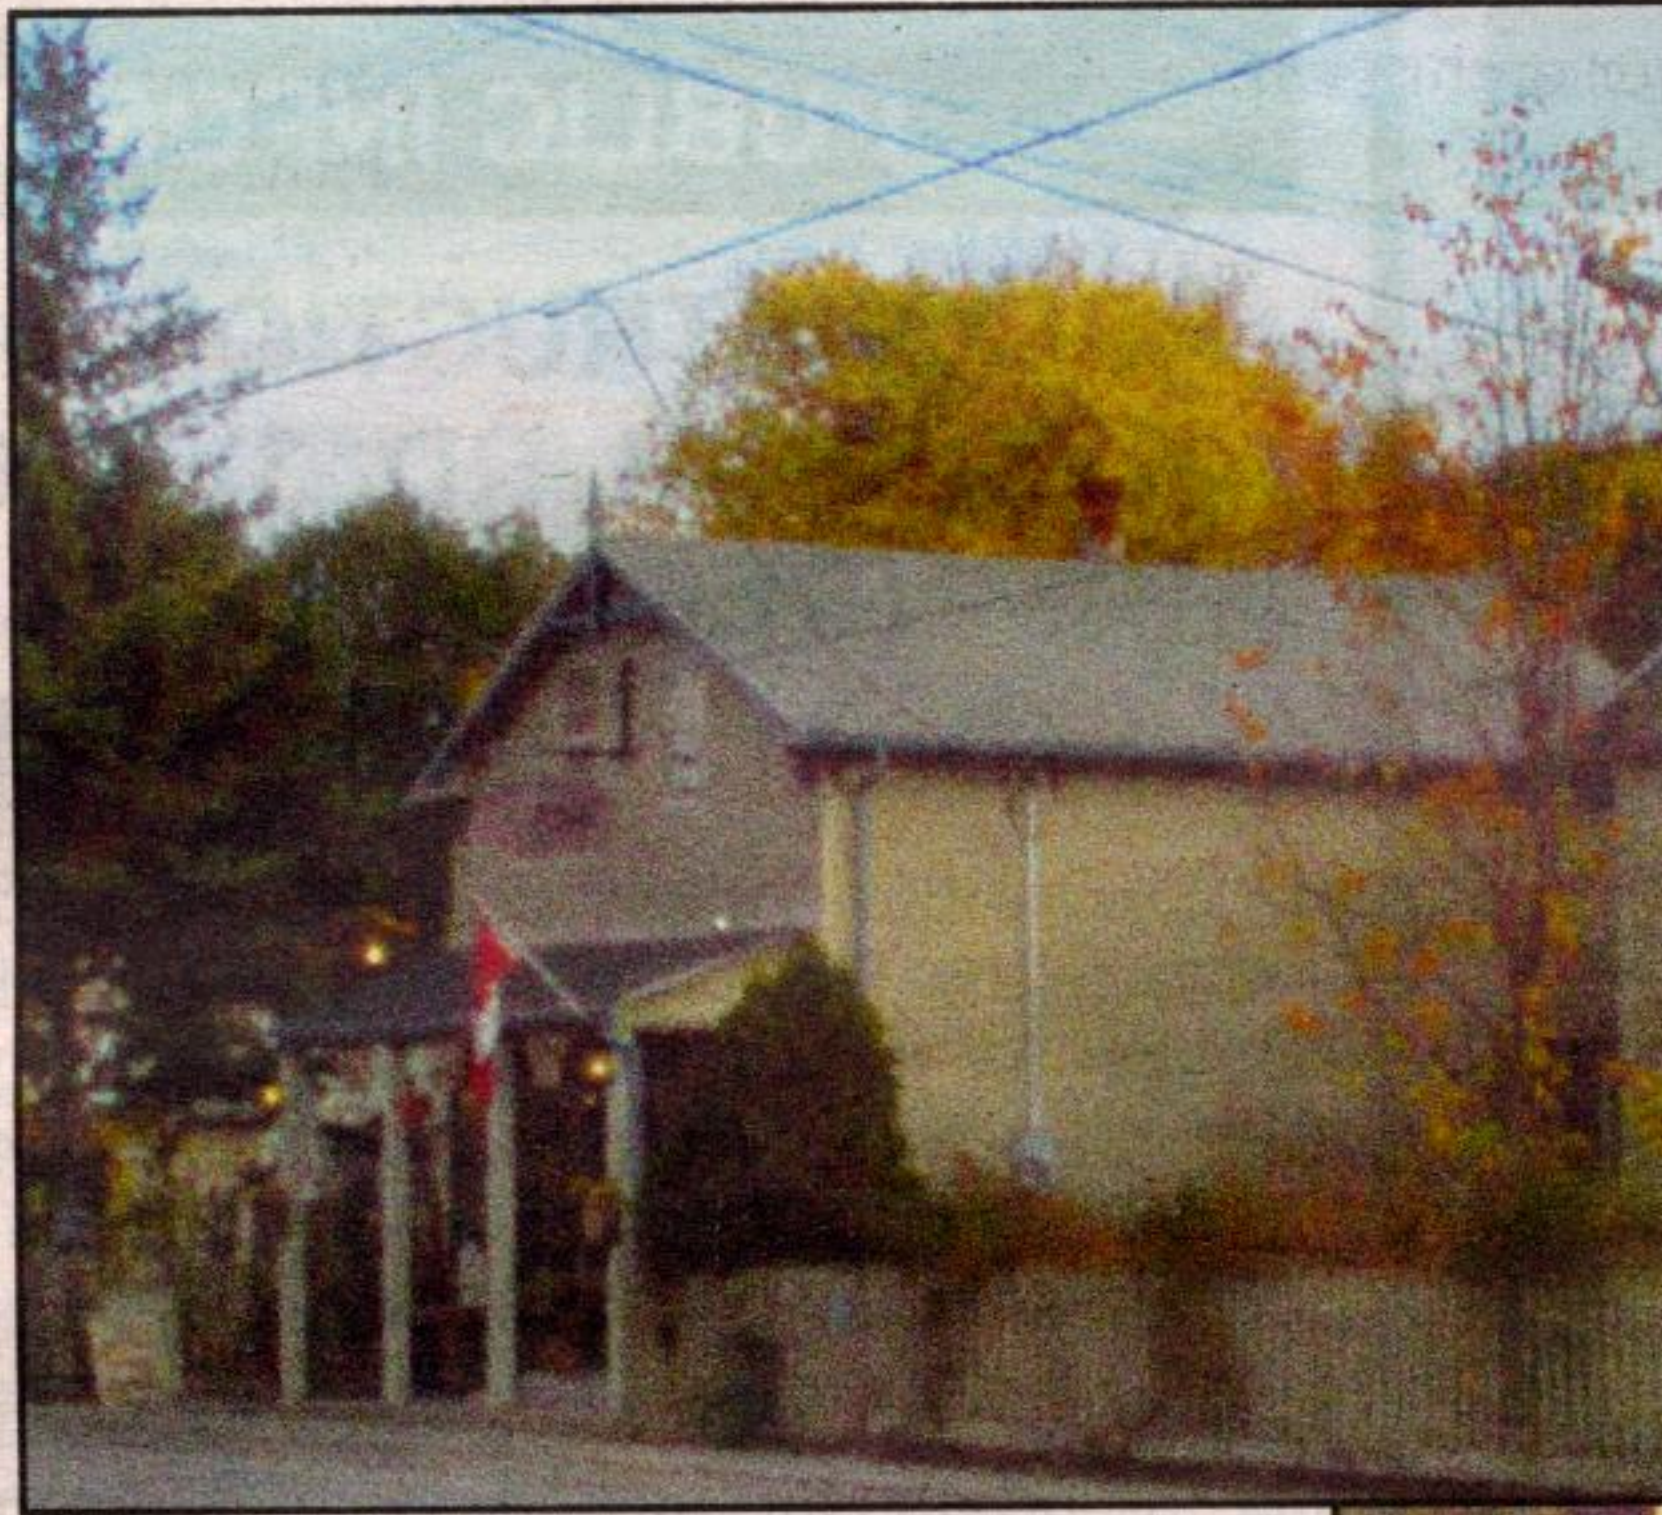

The Williams Mill houses many artist's studios, on the site of the original mill built in 1825 by Charles Williams. The artist's studios are open to the public on Fridays and Saturdays from noon until 5pm, and occasionally open at other times. The gallery is open for public enjoyment Wednesdays through Sundays, noon until five.

Next to the Mill sits the Copper Kettle Pub built by Charles Williams in 1856. It was used as a post office and general store until 1971. The pub boasts a traditional English décor, a variety of delicious meals, imported ales and lagers, and tasty teas served in individual pots dressed with tea cozies. The Copper Kettle also features musical jam nights every other Tuesday evening.

Best's Harbour, just across the road from the pub has an extensive collection of Canadian art and crafts. The building (circa 1847) was actually the setting for Timothy Eaton's first job.

Don't leave the village without a visit to the Glen Oven Bakery, where you can enjoy a great cup of tea or coffee along with a large selection of baked goodies.
