SouthWest DSL Service

By Elaine Thomas

A celebratory ribbon cutting, held Saturday, February 26, marked the launch by Georgetown's Aztec Computer of a new product called SouthWest DSL Service.

Last December, owners Judy Latto and Rick Hall hired a new business manager, Daniel Geczi. Daniel is a graduate of Michigan's Ferris State University, where he earned a Bachelor's Degree in Information Systems from a position with a local business in Michigan.

As one of his first projects, Daniel undertook a new DSL service. This service allows customers who either don't yet have DSL or who are shopping around for a service to have a choice.

DSL acts to split your phone line into two, thereby making it possible to use your phone and surf the Internet at the same time. For only $34.95 per month, customers receive access at a speed of 3.0 Mbps (which is faster than dial-up). All you need is a computer and a modem, then after a short wait, you'll be off and surfing.

Aztec Computer has a store in Georgetown. Ryan Ridley of Acton Computer Systems and Crave Systems of Milton and Waterdown locations.

To find out more about SouthWest DSL, call Aztec Computer at 905-877-5211 or visit their store at 348 Guelph Street.
