Keep it clean

Cleaning the car the wrong way can be worse than leaving it dirty! Here are a few tips...

- Never use harsh or abrasive detergents to wash the exterior.
- Wax your car once per year.
- Most manufacturers make the finish on top of the dashboard dull to reduce eye strain from glare and windshield reflections. Don't apply high gloss products such as Armorall to these surfaces.
- Using oil based cleaners, such as varsol, can cause premature aging and fading to many interior plastics. Use only mild detergents.
- Glass cleaner should be used on instrument panel lenses, radio display, etc. Other products could cause transparent parts to appear cloudy.

Halton Board is recalling 103 instructional assistants

The Halton District School Board will be recalling 103 Instructional Assistants for placement in September 1998. Recall notices were issued this week.

Layoff notices were issued to Instructional Assistants in late April in accordance with the legislated timelines, and numbers of layoffs as set in the provincial Labour Relations Act. The Halton District School Board had 412 Instructional Assistant Staff in its employ, but as a result of the Ministry of Education and Training's new funding formula, there was uncertainty regarding how much money would be available for the provisions of special education in the 1998-99 school year.

Under the education ministry's new process for special education funding, claims for students with special needs were to be completed by school boards by June 15, and submitted for a validation process by the Ministry of Education and Training prior to funding. Ministry staff will be at the Halton District School Board on August 24 and 25 for validation process.

However, a recent announcement by the education ministry guaranteed a set level of special education funding for the Halton District School Board prior to funding. Ministry staff will be at the Halton District School Board on August 24 and 25 for the validation process.

However, a recent announcement by the education ministry guaranteed a set level of special education funding for the Halton District School Board, prior to the validation of claims. This has allowed the rehiring/recall of an additional 103 Instructional Assistants, bring the total Instructional Assistants in place for September to 250. Should the validation process result in additional funding, this would allow the Halton District School Board to rehire/recall additional Instructional Assistants.

The majority of Instructional Assistants within the Halton District School Board deal with special needs students (students with autism, who are blind, deaf or learning disabled), and special education programs (such as Satellite, Developmental Education, and cluster classes).

"Instructional Assistants will be recalled to the system at this point," says Kearney, Superintendent of Education responsible for Special Education.
