the block building and the cement pad that the old arena sat on.

§ The school year begins at Robert Little school without veteran teacher Rosemary Black who retired with fond memories and few regrets after 38 years - all of it spent at Robert Little.

§ There was a dramatic increase in the number of drunk drivers stopped by Halton police this holiday season. Police laid seven impaired driving charges after stopping 25,145 cars compared to five impaired after 23,285 checks.

§ Former Acton teacher and Halton District School Board trustee Ethel Gardiner is elected as chair of the board. Gardiner won the secret ballot vote in a race against Burlington trustee Sheila Flook.

§ Acton rallies to help victims of the eastern Ontario and Quebec ice storms. Local church and service clubs gathered donations of food, equipment and supplies for distribution.

VESTA Jorgensen, right, is consoled by Ron Hill after fire completely demolished the Georgetown Little Theatre's headquarters in Stewarttown on Monday, March 30, 1998. The historic 150-year-old building was once the headquarters of Esquesing Township.

§ Acton's Brent Marshall is appointed acting Chief Operating Officer for Halton Region. Marshall, most recently Commissioner of Planning and Public Works, worked his way up from the works department.

§ The Acton High school Senior Redmen basketball team dropped a 75 - 36 to St. Thomas Aquinas for the Halton Secondary School
