CANCER CAN

As long as we contribute dollars to fight this insidious disease, regardless of race, religion or financial security. It spares no one that come from ordinary people like you and me.

Thanks to research, one of every two cancer patients is now surviving in five. Research funded by our dollars has increased and we've still got a way to go.

Approximately 160 volunteers of the Acton branch of the Canadian Cancer Society followed a startup dinner last night (Wednesday) to help top the $25,000 raised last year in Acton and area. We ask local people like Lorne Doberthien or Lynda Bowe to help research paid for through the Canadian Cancer Society. The slogan, "Cancer can be beaten", is not just an effective motto of others who have beaten cancer that a few years ago. Research continually uncovers new tools in the fight against cancer.
