

Treat Dad to a 'reel' good Father's Day meal

REMEMBER DAD

On June 20th

What you really want to give dad for Father's Day this year is that fishing trip he's been talking about for as long as you can remember. Few things can beat the beauty of the great outdoors, the solitude of being alone with nature or the thrilling expectation of hooking a good-size fish to brag about to friends.

This Father's Day, why not treat him to a delicious homemade salmon dinner. While it may not be the same as catching the fish himself, the following recipe possibly may make him happier to be at the dinner table than he might have been on a boat, still waiting for that first bite.

Honey-Lime Salmon

Makes 4 main-dish servings
Prep: 10 minutes, Grill: About 10 minutes

- 3 tablespoons honey
 - 1 teaspoon ground cumin
 - 1 teaspoon ground coriander
 - 3/4 teaspoon salt
 - 3/4 teaspoon grated fresh lime peel
 - 1/4 teaspoon coarsely ground black pepper
 - 4 pieces salmon fillet, 3/4-inch thick (about 6 ounces each), skin removed
 - 3 tablespoons chopped fresh cilantro leaves
1. In a cup, mix honey, cumin, coriander, salt, lime peel, pepper and 1 teaspoon very hot water until blended.
 2. With tweezers, remove any bones from the salmon. With hands, rub honey-spice mixture all over the salmon pieces.
 3. Place salmon on grill over medium heat and cook four minutes. With a wide metal spatula, carefully turn the salmon over, cook four to five minutes longer, just until salmon turns opaque throughout and flakes easily when tested with a fork.
 4. Sprinkle the salmon with cilantro and serve with lime wedges.
