The Last Festival of the Century!
Sunday, August 8th

Sunday, August 8 is the date of the last Leathertown Festival of the century! Six blocks of downtown Acton will be closed to traffic between 11 and 5 to celebrate the 8th annual festival, a summer street party that promises to be the best yet!

The stage entertainment will feature Surco South American Band, George Grosman, The Flamingo Dance Studio, Second Career Barbershop Octet, Juggler Ben Burland, The Cheri Lindsay Dance Studio and of course Acton's very own Acton Citizens' Band. Every block will come alive with music and motion supplied by colourful buskers and clowns, craft vendors will be selling everything from leather jewellery to birdhouses, downtown merchants will be offering sidewalk sales, and as always there will be lots of delicious food! To remember the festival of '99, have a family portrait taken at the Halton Hills Camera Club kiosk, or purchase one of the unique festival souvenirs at the Acton BIA booth. There will be taste testing at the Pepsi booth, pony rides, a pampered pet show, tea leaf readings at Wetherby's, face painting by Acton High School, book signings by author Terry Boyle at The Olde Book House, a selection of vintage British cars on Fellows St., and lots more activities still being finalized. Join us for a great day!

Special thanks to our generous sponsors: Peter Zions Construction, Park-Lincoln Mercury, Georgetown Toyota, Halton Hills Hydro, Eagle Ottawa Canada, Galvcast, Superior Glove, Georgetown Chrysler, Independent/Free Press, Bruce Hood Travel, Car Quest, Achilles Mazda, Daniel Varanelli CGA and Yourway Muffler Plus.

NANCY HALL of Elizabeth Drive says her hollyhocks are approaching 11 feet tall and continue to grow without any support but their stems. A tape measure check showed they were about 10 feet, 7 inches.

Profanity, graffiti at Purity Life

Profane graffiti and a damaged air conditioner greeted staff at Purity Life when they showed up for work Friday morning at the Commerce Court facility. Black magic marker was used to draw a line on the front door and a window and profanity was written on another window. An air conditioner was also tipped over and damaged.

Equipment stolen

The lock on a YMCA Day Care storage shed located behind McKenzie-Smith Bennett school was pried off, but nothing was taken during a break-in that occurred overnight Friday. The shed contains kiddy riding toys and day care equipment. The Acton Minor Association didn't get off so lightly. Its nearby wooden equipment box was broken into and T-ball equipment was stolen.

Roof stomped

An unknown person jumped up and down on the roof of a Chevrolet Cavalier parked at Yourway Muffler

POLICE BEAT

Plus on Agnes Street some time between June 30 and July 3, doing $900 damage was done to the roof of the car which police believe belongs to a customer.

Alarm activations

Acton firefighters were called to the seniors' residence at 46 Holmesway Place twice on Friday afternoon to answer an alarm. At 4 p.m. the alarm on the second floor sounded and when firefighters arrived on scene they smelled a strong odour of bacon and assumed that's what set the alarm off. About an hour later the alarm was activated again, this time by high humidity on the second floor. The alarm company was called to inspect the device.

RR2

The brother-in-law had some bad luck, sold the car to buy a draw ticket and won a set of tires.
