

Perfect weather for last one of century!

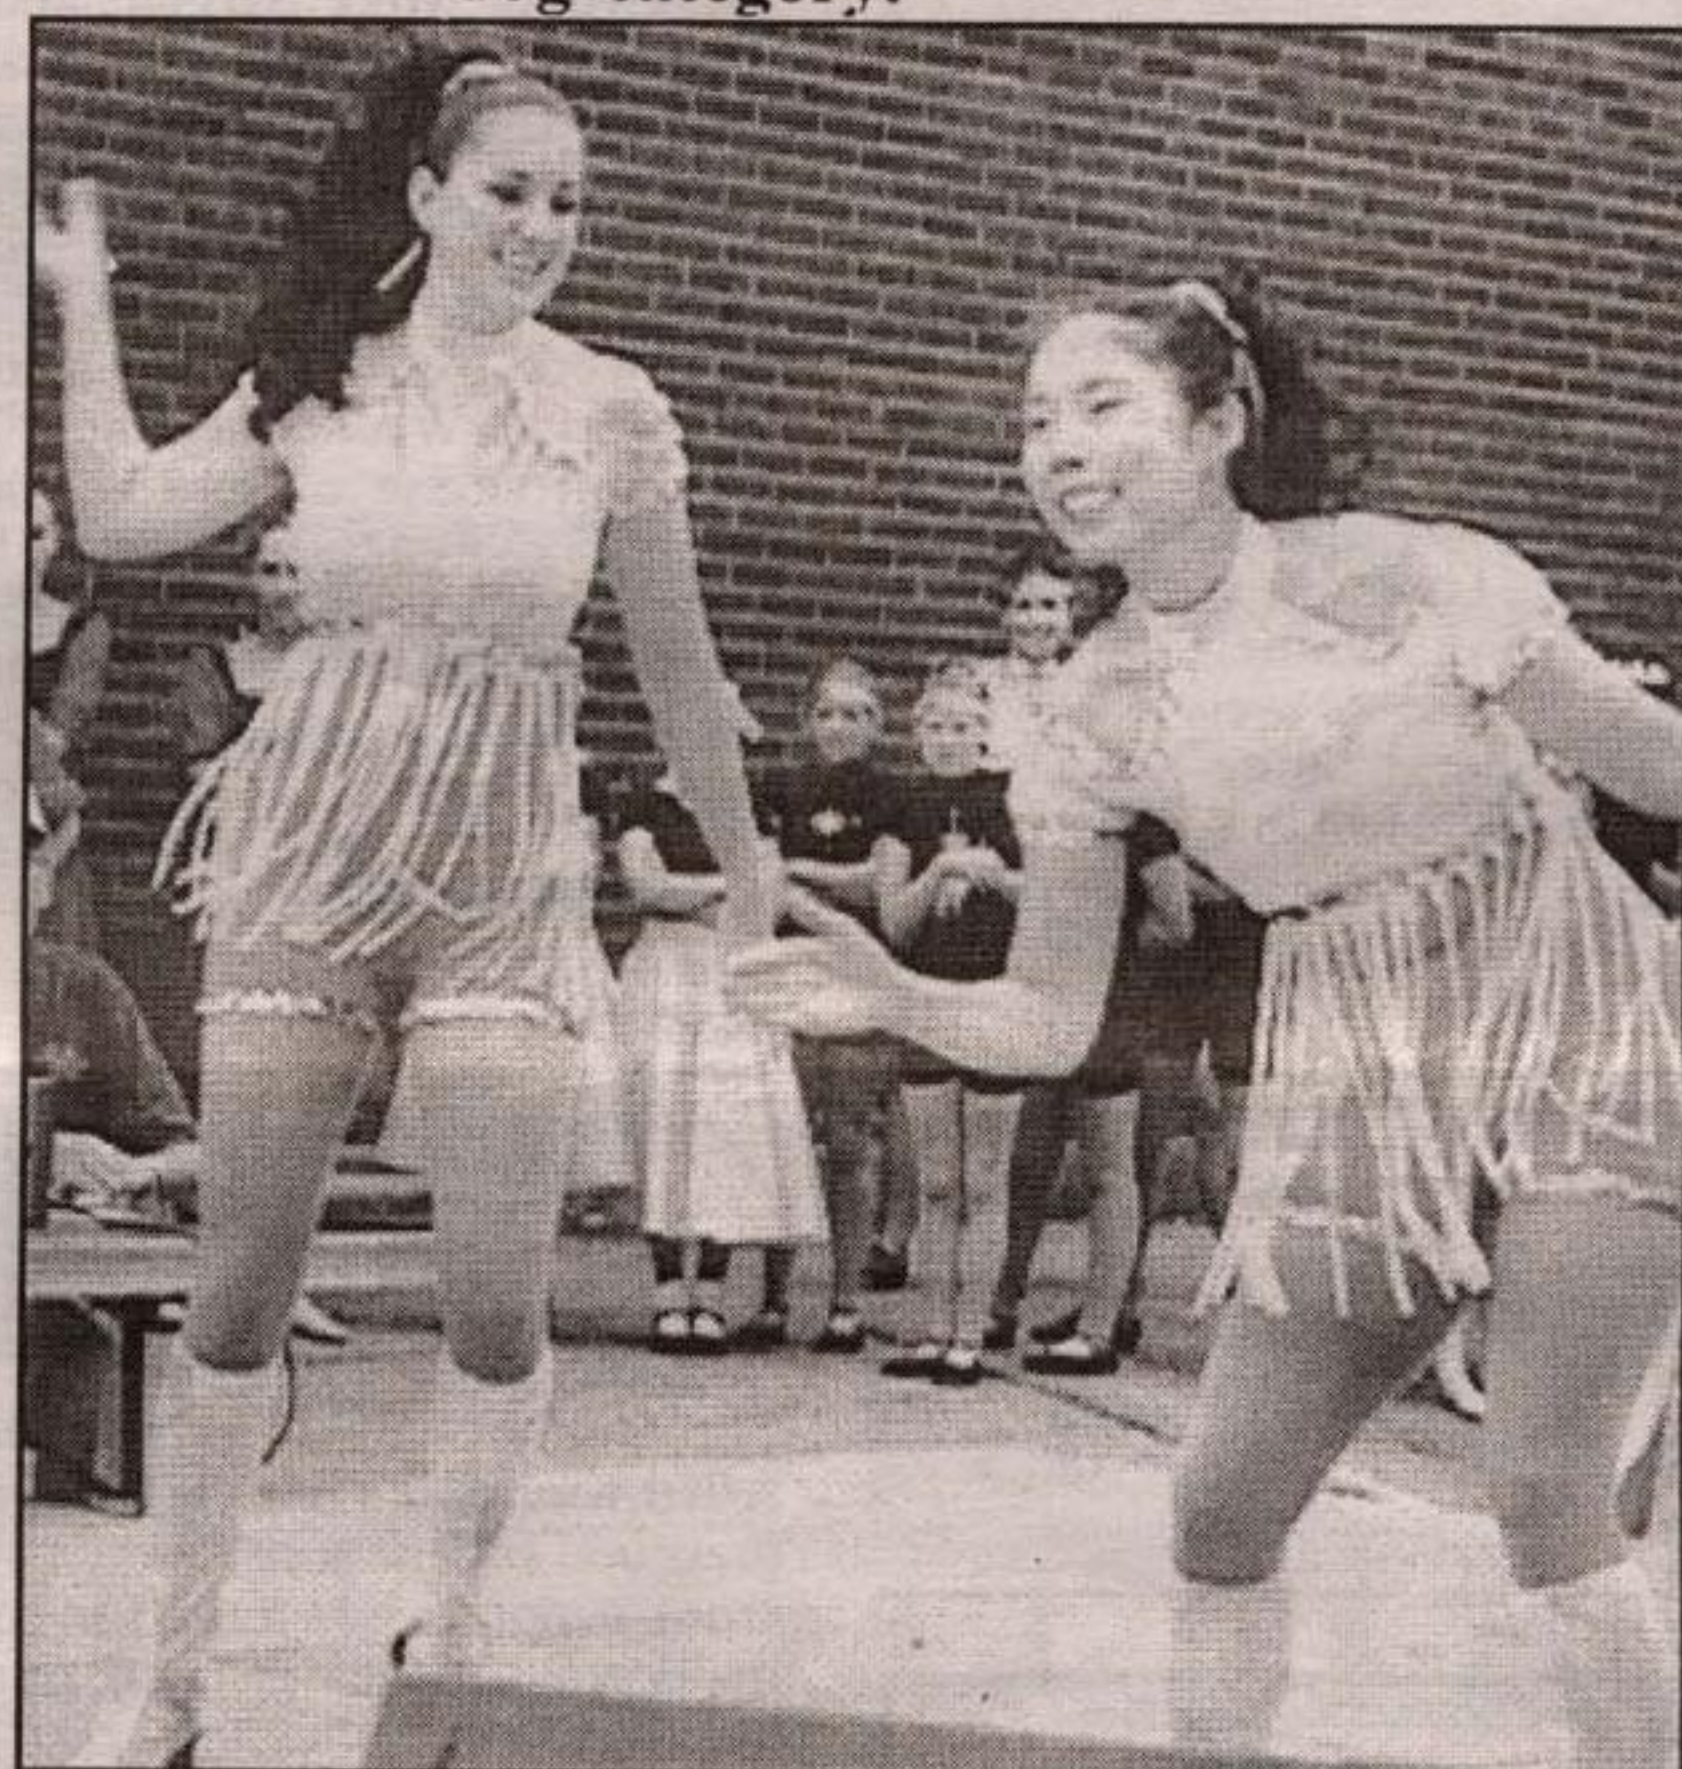

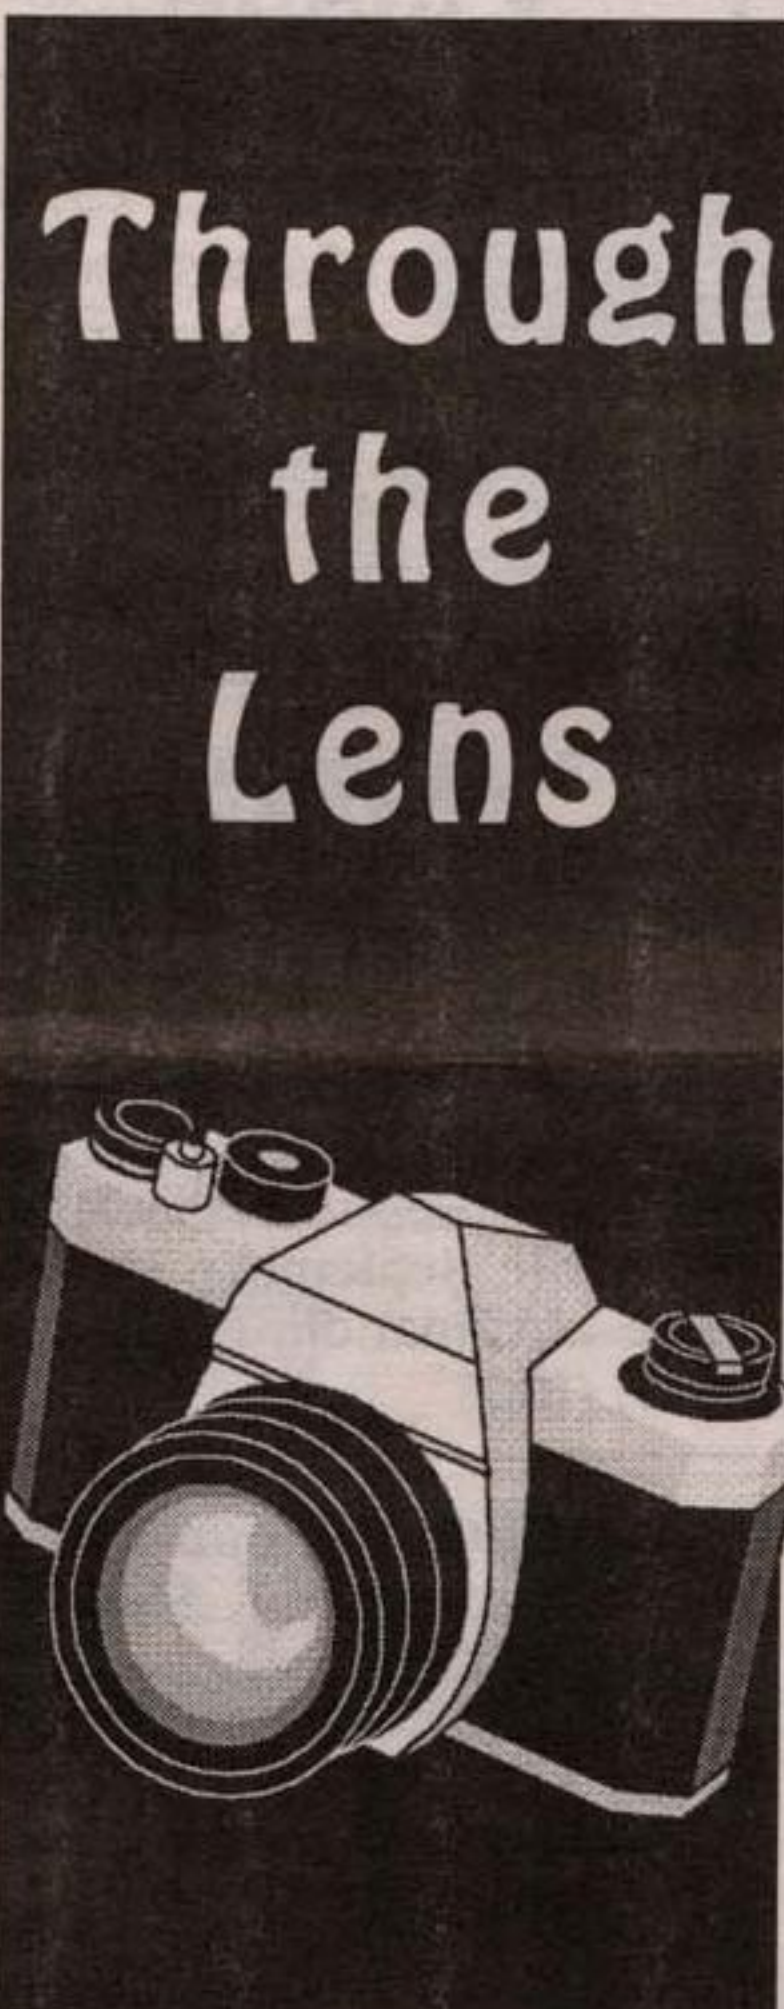

CLOWNING AROUND: Angela Rotondo, left, and Angie Zampirri, of Forever Youngsters, dressed for the fun and frivolity Sunday during Leathertown Festival.

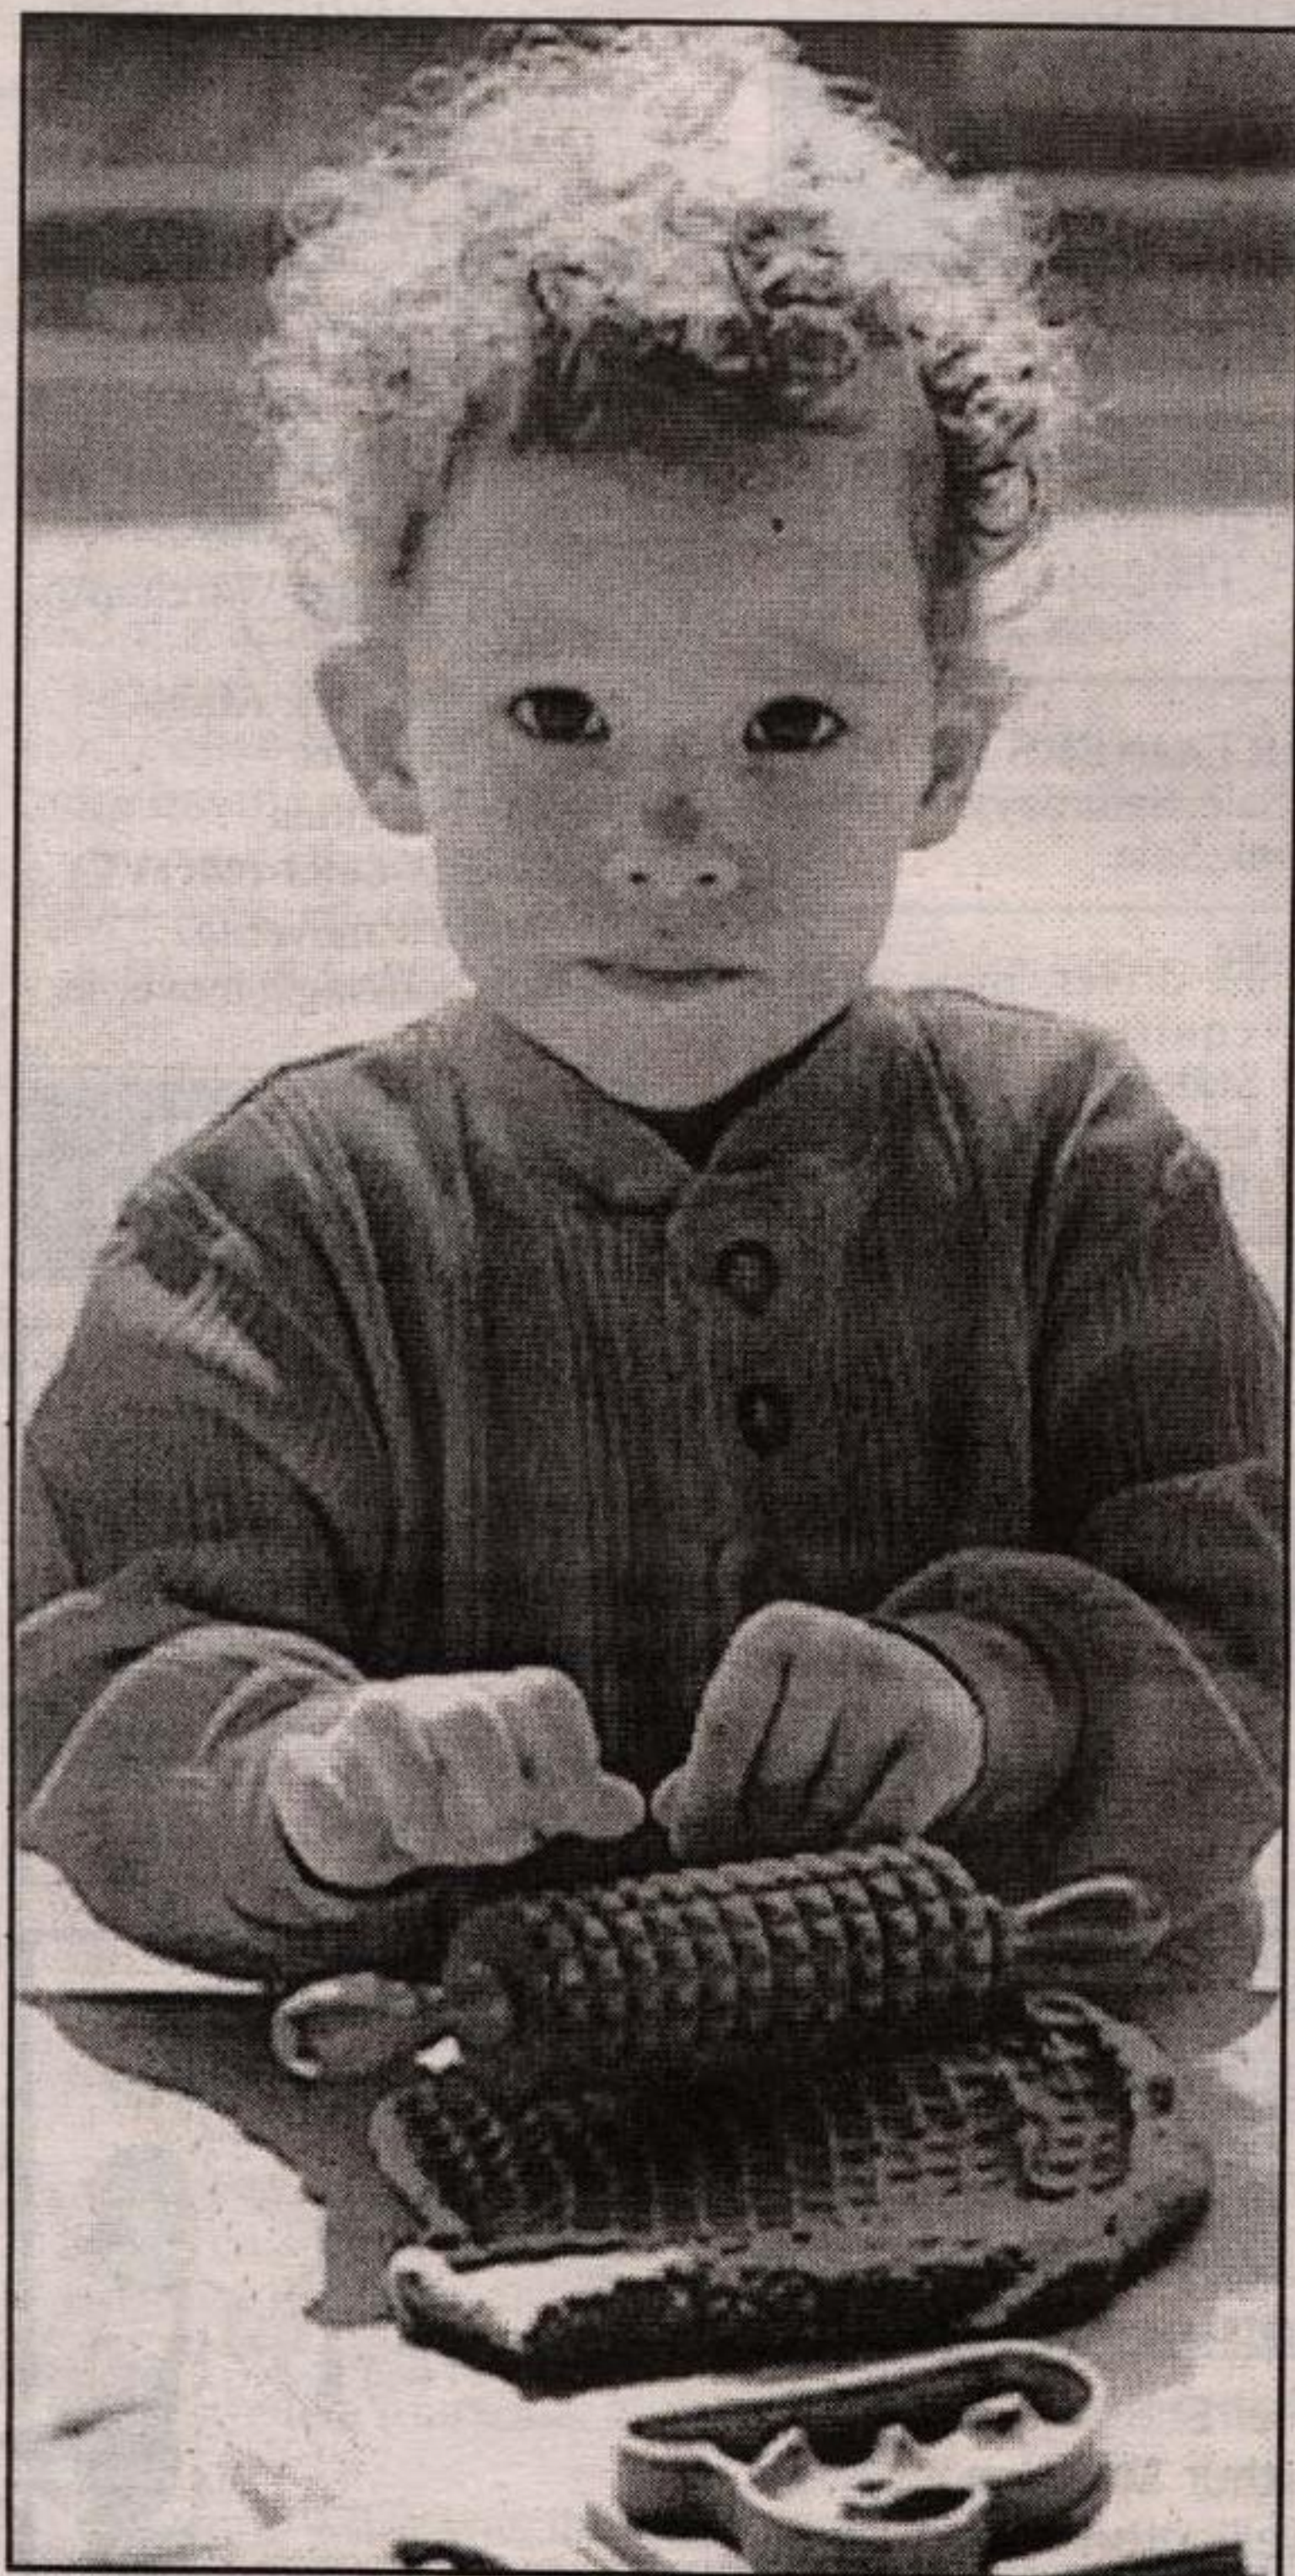

LITTLE SWEETIE: Liz Bailey brought along Bailey, her nine-week-old Yorkie-Poo, for a jaunt through the booths and crowds at the Leathertown Festival.

BEST COSTUME: Becky Somerville of Acton dressed up Kelsey for the dog show at the Leathertown Festival and captured first place in the best dressed dog category.

TAPPIN' UP A STORM: Jody Normore, left, and Tracy Tabuchi were among students from the Cheri Lindsay Dance Studio participating in the stage show at the Leathertown Festival.

YOU CALLED? Madeleine Woods, 2, interrupted her Sunday morning baking to explain her technique for the photographer.

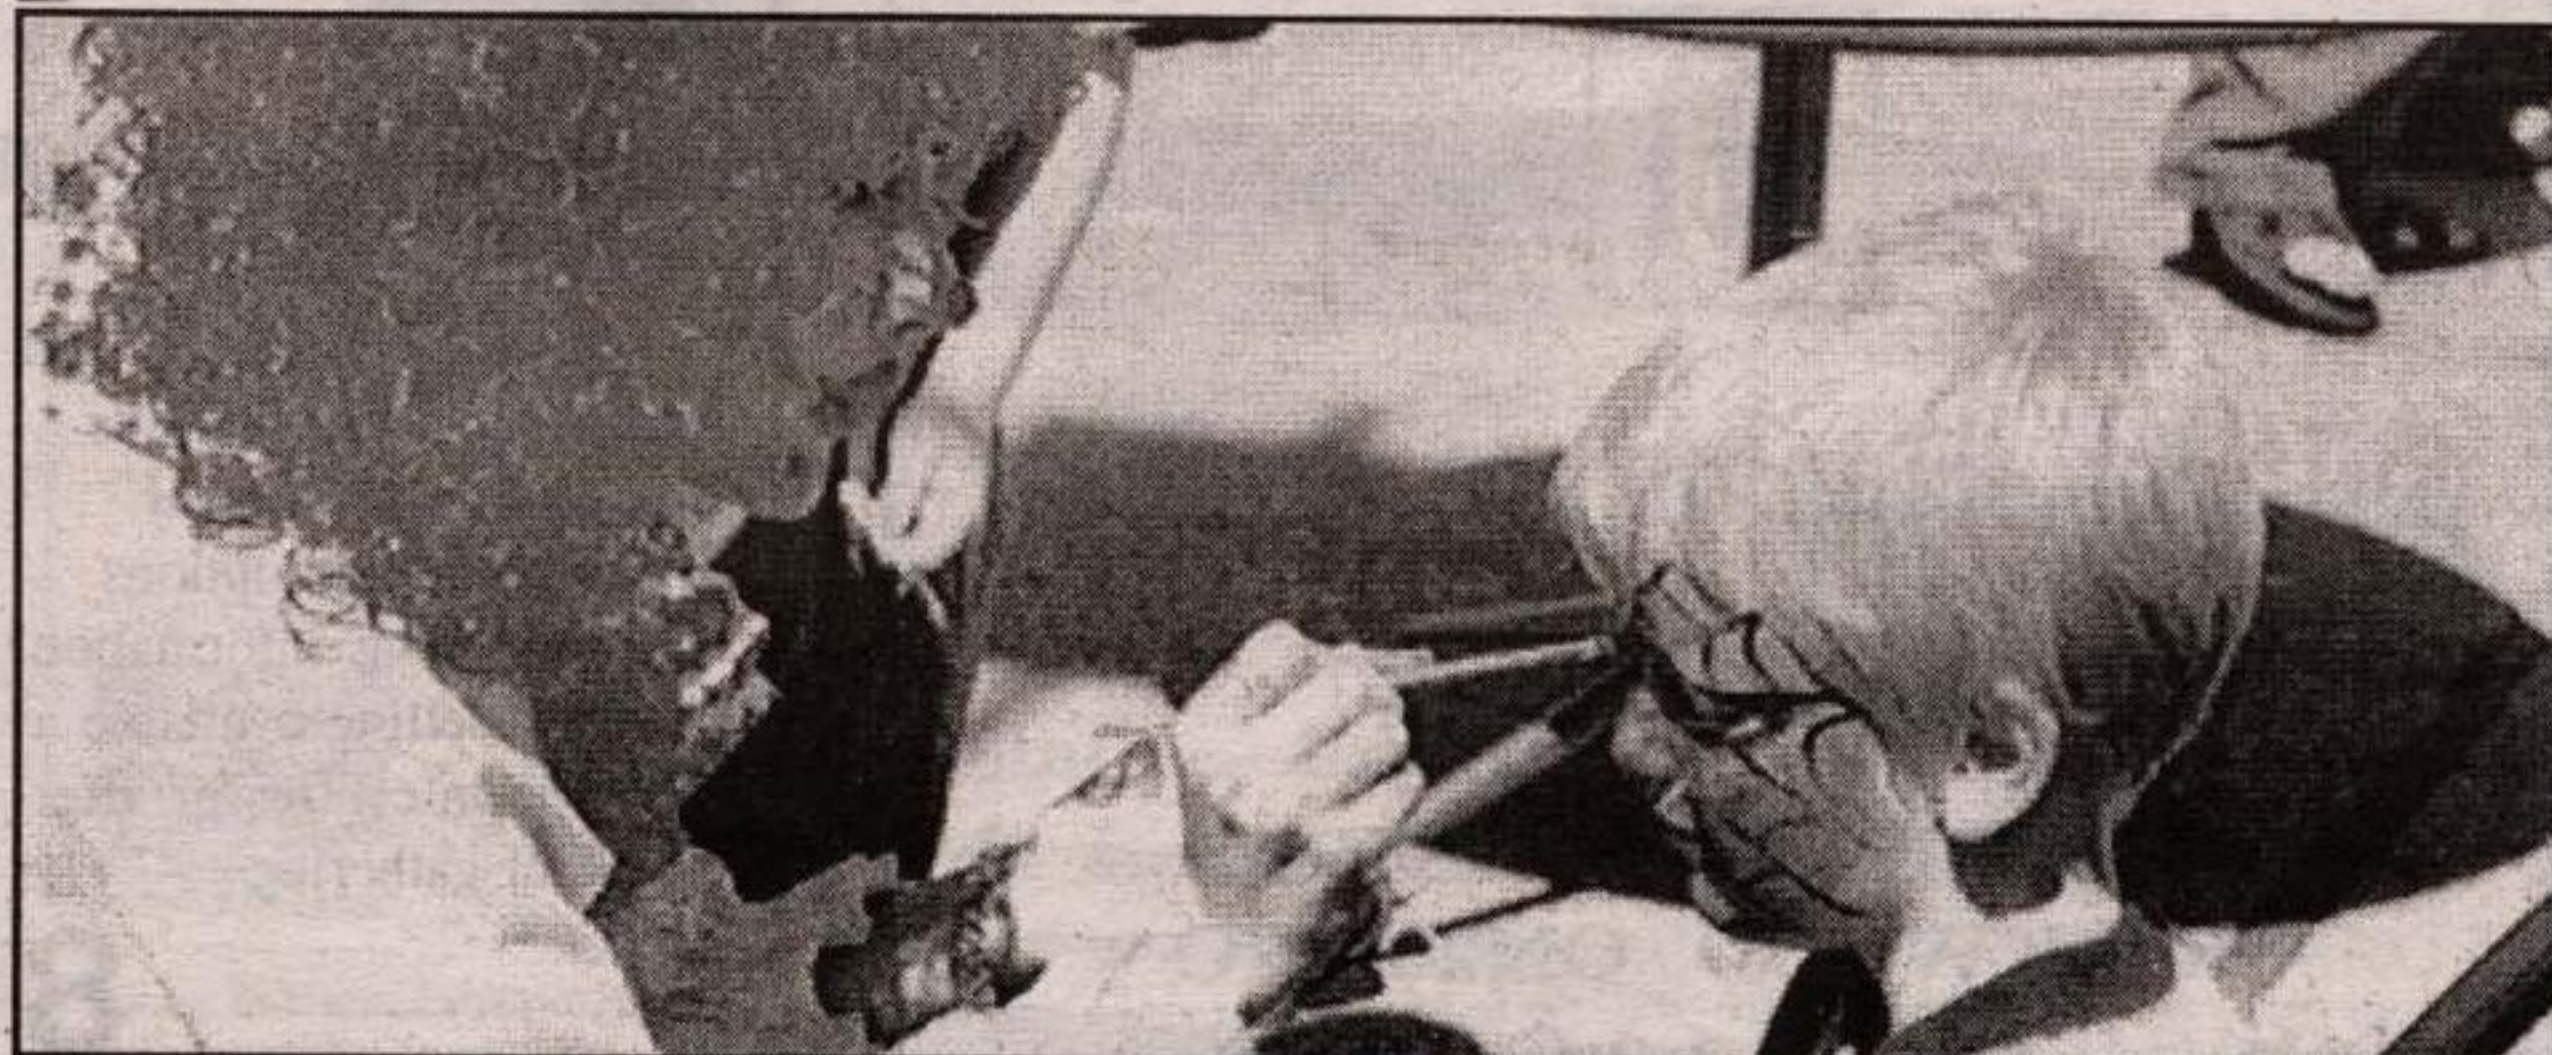

AND ANOTHER, AND ANOTHER: Ben Burland gave the crowd a demonstration of his skill during his turn on stage at the Leathertown Festival.

JUST CHECKING: Rosslyn Dowell, executive director of Halton Hills Community Support and Information, lets her son Michael, 3, check out the climbing blocks.

NIFTY NOTES: Some of the pleasant moments during Sunday's festival were provided by musicians like the members of this ensemble situated in front of Acton Mews.

SPIDERMAN: Feebee the Clown applied the finishing touches to the design on the face of Jesse Ledgerwood, 6, of Acton during the Leathertown Festival.