WHAT IS CANCER?
Cancer is a group of different medical conditions when cells of the body in some organ or tissue are abnormal. Normally, the cells in the body replace themselves in a controlled way. However, sometimes they lose control and form a lump or growth. These growths are also called tumours. They can be either harmless or harmful. Harmless or benign tumours do not spread to other parts of the body and are not a threat to life. Harmful or malignant tumours can spread to other parts of the body and attack and destroy the...
