

BEAUTIFUL BALLERINAS: Members of the Georgetown Dance company (formerly Cheri Lindsay Dance School), showed their grace and poise with a performance during Sunday's Festival.

PUG PERFECT: Heather Mathieson, 10, and her five-year-old Pug Roxanne, captured two prizes in the Festival dog show - best trick and owner and pet that look the most alike.

THE BAND: A concert by the Acton Citizens' Band wrapped up the entertainment at Sunday's 9th annual Leathertown Festival. Band members played through the day - very much appreciated by the crowds.

LEATHERTOWN Festival

PAST & FUTURE: Heritage Acton members Vic Bristow and Stella Brunelle helped man a booth at Sunday's festival, raising aware and money for the Town Hall restoration project.

HOW LOW? Thomas Bandura of England, visiting the Blue Springs Scout Camp, found out just how low he could go during a limbo contest at the Red Dog Cafe on Sunday during the Leathertown Festival.

BAD! These Georgetown Dance Company (formerly Cheri Lindsay Dance School) members are "bad" as they perform to the song Bad during the festival.

WITH THANKS: Acton Heritage Mural Committee members Janis Fread and Councillor Norm Elliot, (right) present Halton MP Julian Reed with a framed copy of prints of the two Acton murals, during the "unveiling".

AIRBORNE WINNER: Halton Hills Community Support and Information board member Meta Hobbs (left) and executive director Rosslyn Dowell draw the winning name ticket - a three-hour ride in the CFRB traffic plane won by Acton's Walter Barlow.

READY TO ROLL: Mike Rudat, 14, of Acton manages to "crail air" as he checks out the mobile skate board park at the Leathertown Festival.

VOLUNTEERS PRAISED: Halton MP Julian Reed officially opened Sunday's Leathertown Festival, thanking the volunteers, including (from left) Sue Walker, Elly Tuitman and Acton BIA general manager Janis Fread who made the 9th annual event a community success.

SWING SISTERS: The crowds at Sunday's Leathertown Festival loved this Zoot Suit Riot number by members of the Georgetown Dance Company.

A NOSE FOR FUN: "Willie Wimple" with the Evangel Pentecostal Tabernacle's Sidewalk Sunday school entertained the kids, and some adults, during the festival.

MUSICAL MUTT: Zamion Entertainment's puppy dog, pulling an assortment of musical instruments, made his way through the crowd at the festival.

SWING SINGERS: The Bohemian Swing Band had the crowds tapping their toes and singing along as they entertained during Sunday's festival.
