Who Are the Role Models in Your Child's Life?

We used to say that the village raised our children. Today, the village is the media who makes heroes out of some of the worst role models in society... athletes and entertainers who expect constant adulation, endless money, and to live by a different set of laws.

At our martial arts school, we take our position as role models for our younger students very seriously. That's why our instructors teach courtesy, respect, and self-confidence. Despite what others may say, we are all role models, whether we choose to be or not.

We're sure you'll find some of the best role models for your children leading our classes. Our after school programme is starting soon. Give us a call...
