Con Games & Scams
I receive calls from citizens all the time asking about con games and scams. It would seem that as fast as we figure out one con game another is already in progress.

I am always asked how do you tell if it is a scam when someone comes to your door asking for money for this program or that program. There is no cut and dry answer but there are some things to ask which can help you out.

1. Do they have any identification stating who they are and the charity they are working for?
2. Do they have a registered charity number for income tax receipts? If not, I would be doubtful.

What to say when someone comes to the door and you are not sure if they are legitimate:

1. Ask them to leave something you can read and an envelope to send money if you decide to do so.
2. Pick out a charity and only donate to them and if anyone comes to the door advise them you only donate to a specific charity, as you only have a certain amount of money that you can donate.

If you give money to all who request it you will soon be in need of charity yourself. Remember "DON'T BE A VICTIM".
