Sheila Storey among forty-nine receiving Monsanto Scholarship

Forty-nine high school students from across the country, including Sheila Storey of Rockwood, will have help paying their university tuition, thanks to funding made available by Monsanto Canada Inc. through its 2002 Opportunity Scholarship program. Twelve were from Ontario.

Over 190 applicants were evaluated by an independent panel composed of Robert Bulman, president of Bulman Communications; Merv Pritchard, director, school of agriculture, University of Manitoba; Ellen Kubay, education and promotion co-ordinator, Manitoba Canola Growers Association; and Richard Lavergne, senior regional communications advisor, Agriculture and Agri-Food Canada.

The 49 winners – who will each receive a $1,500 scholarship – are entering their first year of post-secondary education in agricultural sciences or forestry at a recognized Canadian educational institution. All the scholarship winners demonstrated outstanding academic excellence, leadership capabilities and a keen interest and involvement in their local communities.

It's the 12th year Monsanto Canada has awarded scholarships to high school students across the country as a means to support rural youth and agricultural education. Monsanto Canada, based in Winnipeg, Manitoba, is a leading provider of technology-based solutions and agricultural products that improve productivity.
