

Journey to Bethlehem

Jack Carpenter says he knew approval for the Journey to Bethlehem was not going to be easy but some of the expenses such as the use of Prospect Park on Dec. 20-21 has been a "bit of a road block."

The live nativity play has the support of the Acton Ministerial Association and there's real enthusiasm among members of all Acton churches for the project. However, to get a permit for use of the park, Halton Hills Parks and Recreation requires $80.00 for the park, $217.50 for the use of the Boat House ($21.75 per hour), parking at Robert Little School $278.20 ($27.82 per hour) and a mandatory insurance policy of $2 million.

"We believe the expenses will be covered," Jack says. "but it has made it more difficult. Once the final approvals are in we can move on."

In the pageant Caesar Augustus says "And all the world will be taxed." "He wasn't kidding," Carpenter says.

Moorefield tournament not Acton Atoms' cup of tea

The Denny's Atom AE Tanners lost a league game to Orangeville November 6, then travelled all the way to Mooretown, near Sarnia, for a tournament. The Tanners lost the first two tournament games, but salvaged the weekend with a win against the host team in their final game.

The Tanners lost to Orangeville 3-0. Colton Wiens shut Orangeville out for his half game, as the Tanners settled down to keep pace with the Flyers over the second half of the game. It was the first game of the season where the Tanners were out hit.

Acton opened the tournament with a 5-1 loss to Petrolia, and followed that up with a 4-1 loss to Tecumseh. Captain Josh McDonnell scored both the Tanner goals, and Jesse Harris allowed only a single goal between both games, but it was not enough to earn a win.

The team's final tournament game was against host Mooretown. Coach Bruce Chiasson fired the players up with a pre-game reminder that teammates should be closer than brothers and work together. The players must have been listening, because they put in a good team effort to earn a 3-1 win.

Josh McDonnell again led the way for Acton, scoring another goal, and setting up winger John White a number of times, including White's first goal of the season. Jesse Spurrell scored Acton's other goal on a nice passing play with Brandan Masini. Other Tanners to earn assists in the tournament were Jamie Campbell with three, and Garret Kri and Roger Kirkness with one each.

McDonnell and Brandan Lockyer led the team in the hitting department, as they usually do. Next game is Saturday at 5:30 at home in Acton.
