

IRISH DANCER: No medieval banquet would be complete unless there's an Irish dancer. This is Megan Brady, 13, a member of the Milton Irish Dance Group at Saturday's medieval banquet in Acton's old Town Hall. - Ted Tyler photo.

THUMB SUCKER: Tommy Robertson plays a jester at Saturday's medieval banquet in the old Town Hall, with the help from friend Krystle Thompson. - Ted Tyler photo.

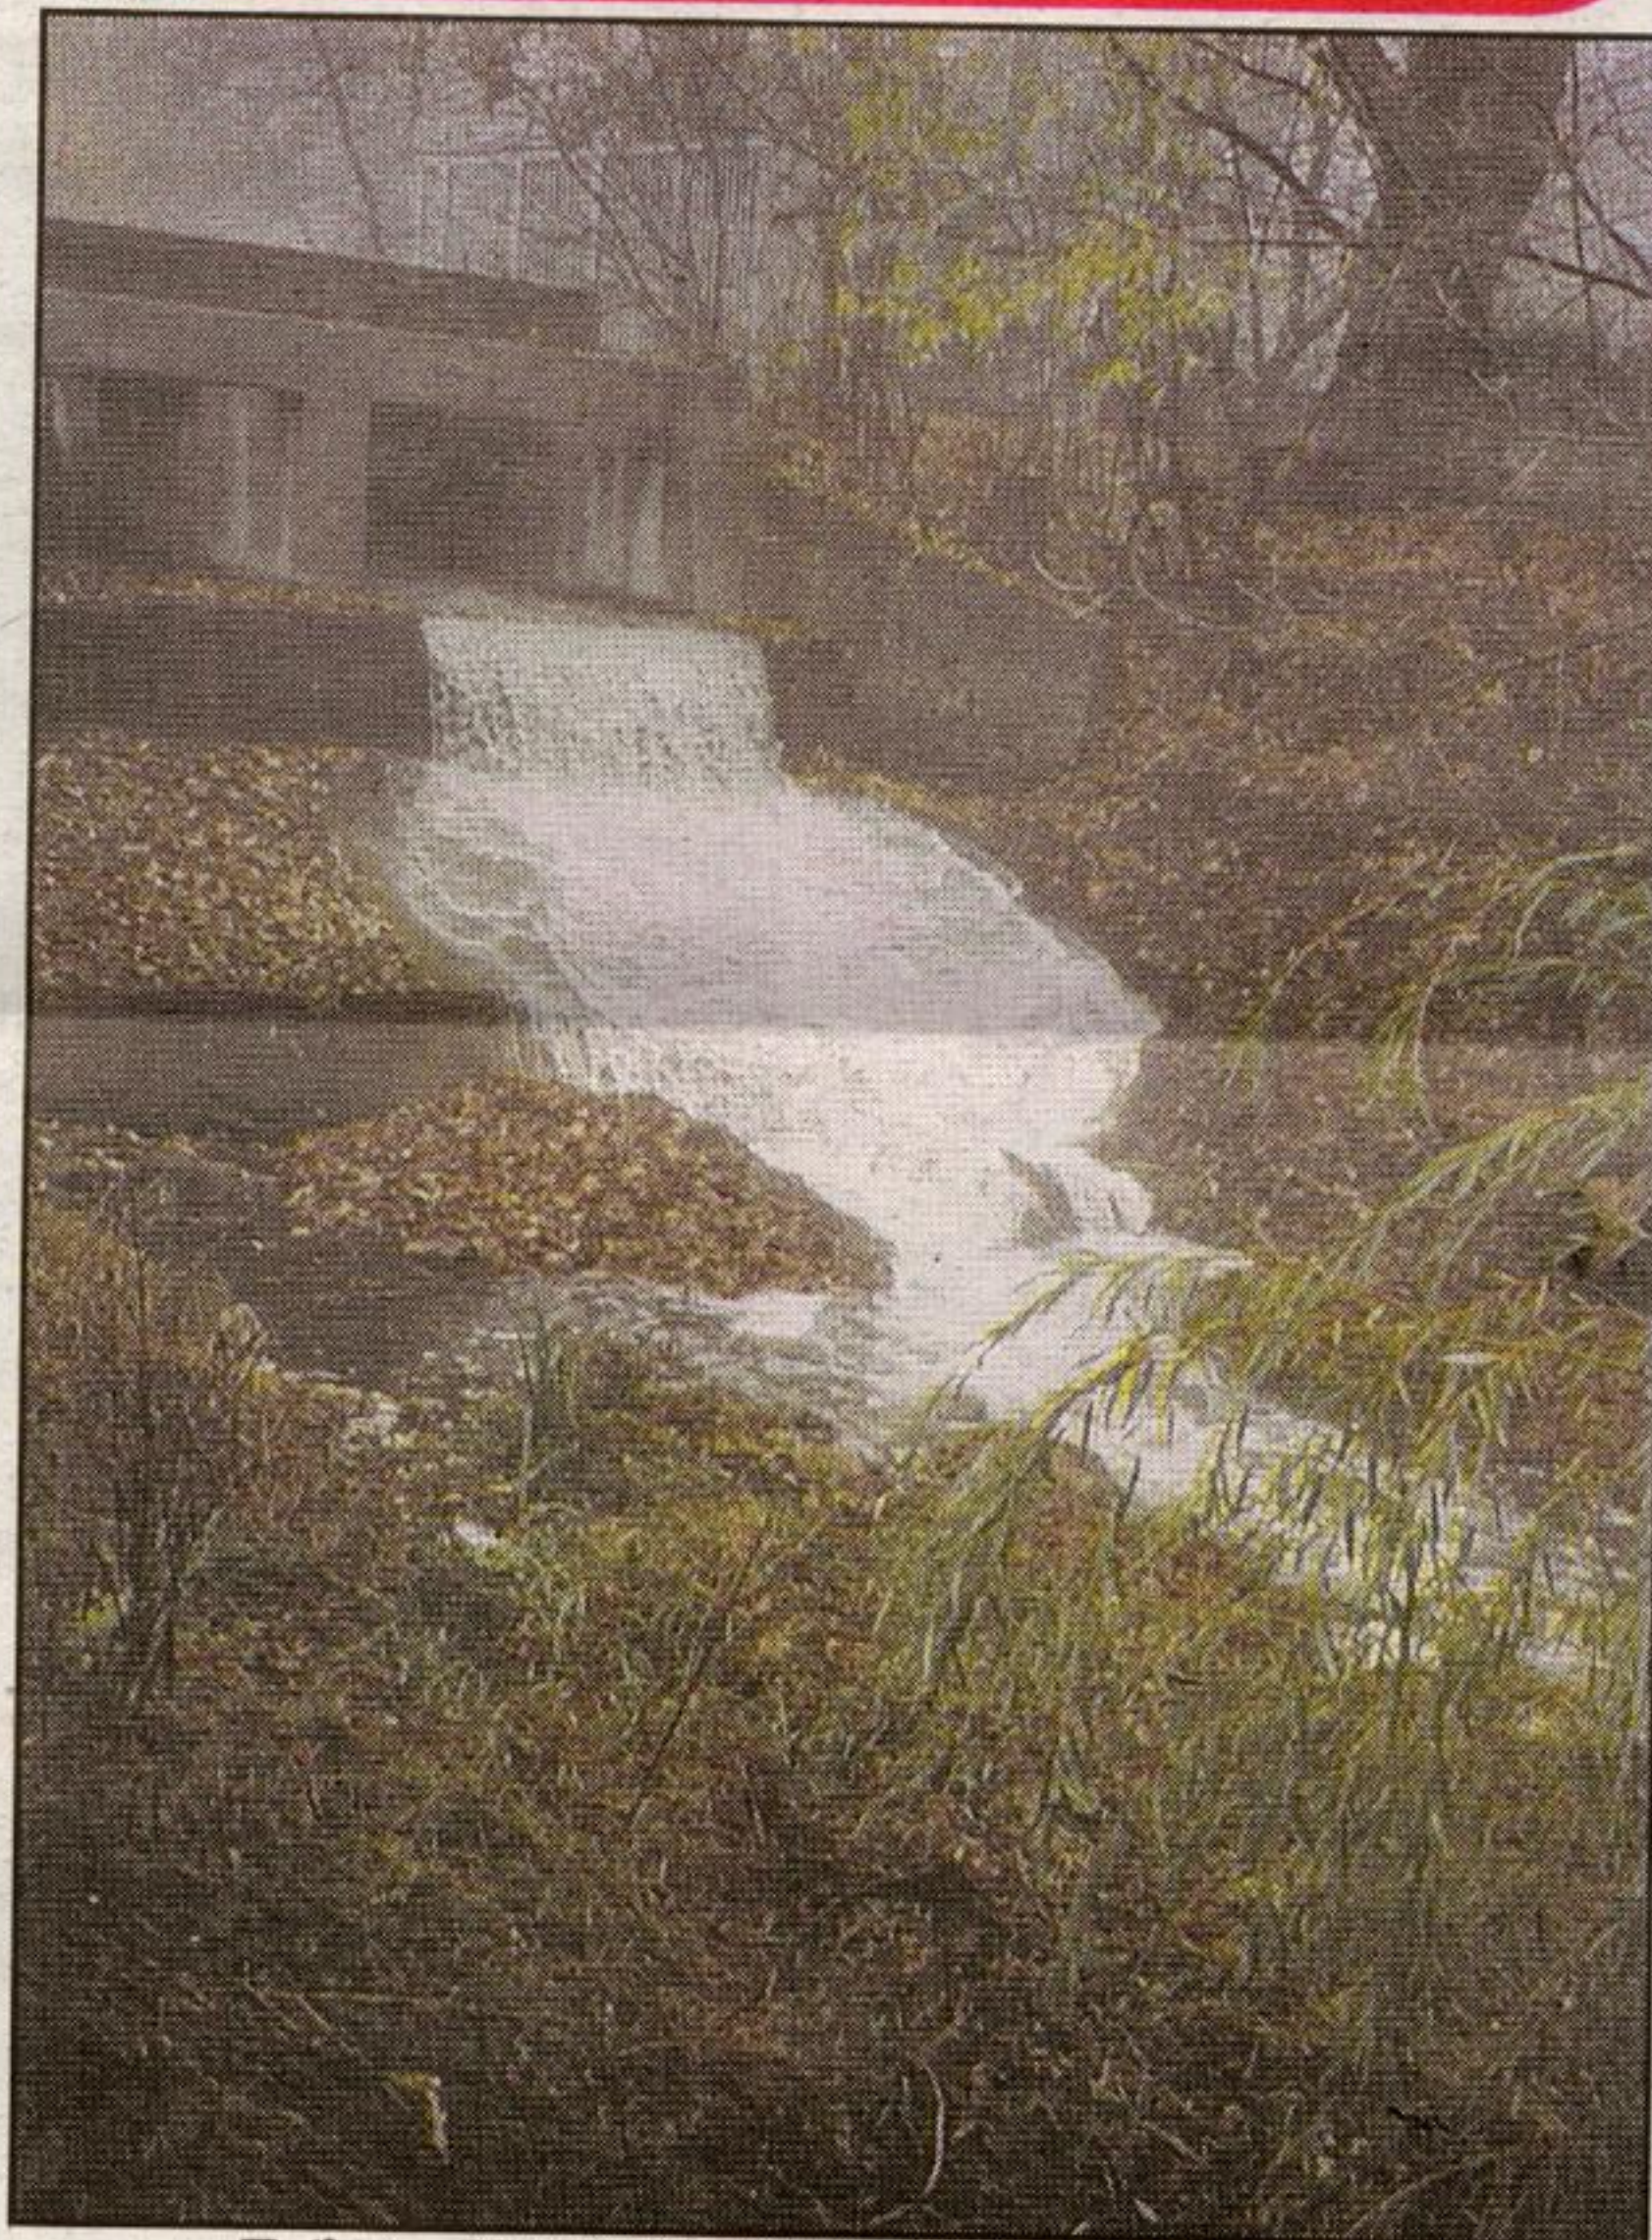

Photo Shoot
By Kasia Walasek, Danielle McIsaac and Ted Tyler

HALLOWE'EN NIGHT: Zoe Glass dressed up as 'Marilyn Monroe' on all Hallows' Eve keeping the team spirit among the staff that work at New Orleans Pizza. - Kasia Walasek photo

ST. ALBAN'S: Betty Cole serves up some delicious treats at the St. Alban's Bazaar and bake sale this past Saturday. - Danielle McIsaac photo

It's all water over the dam.

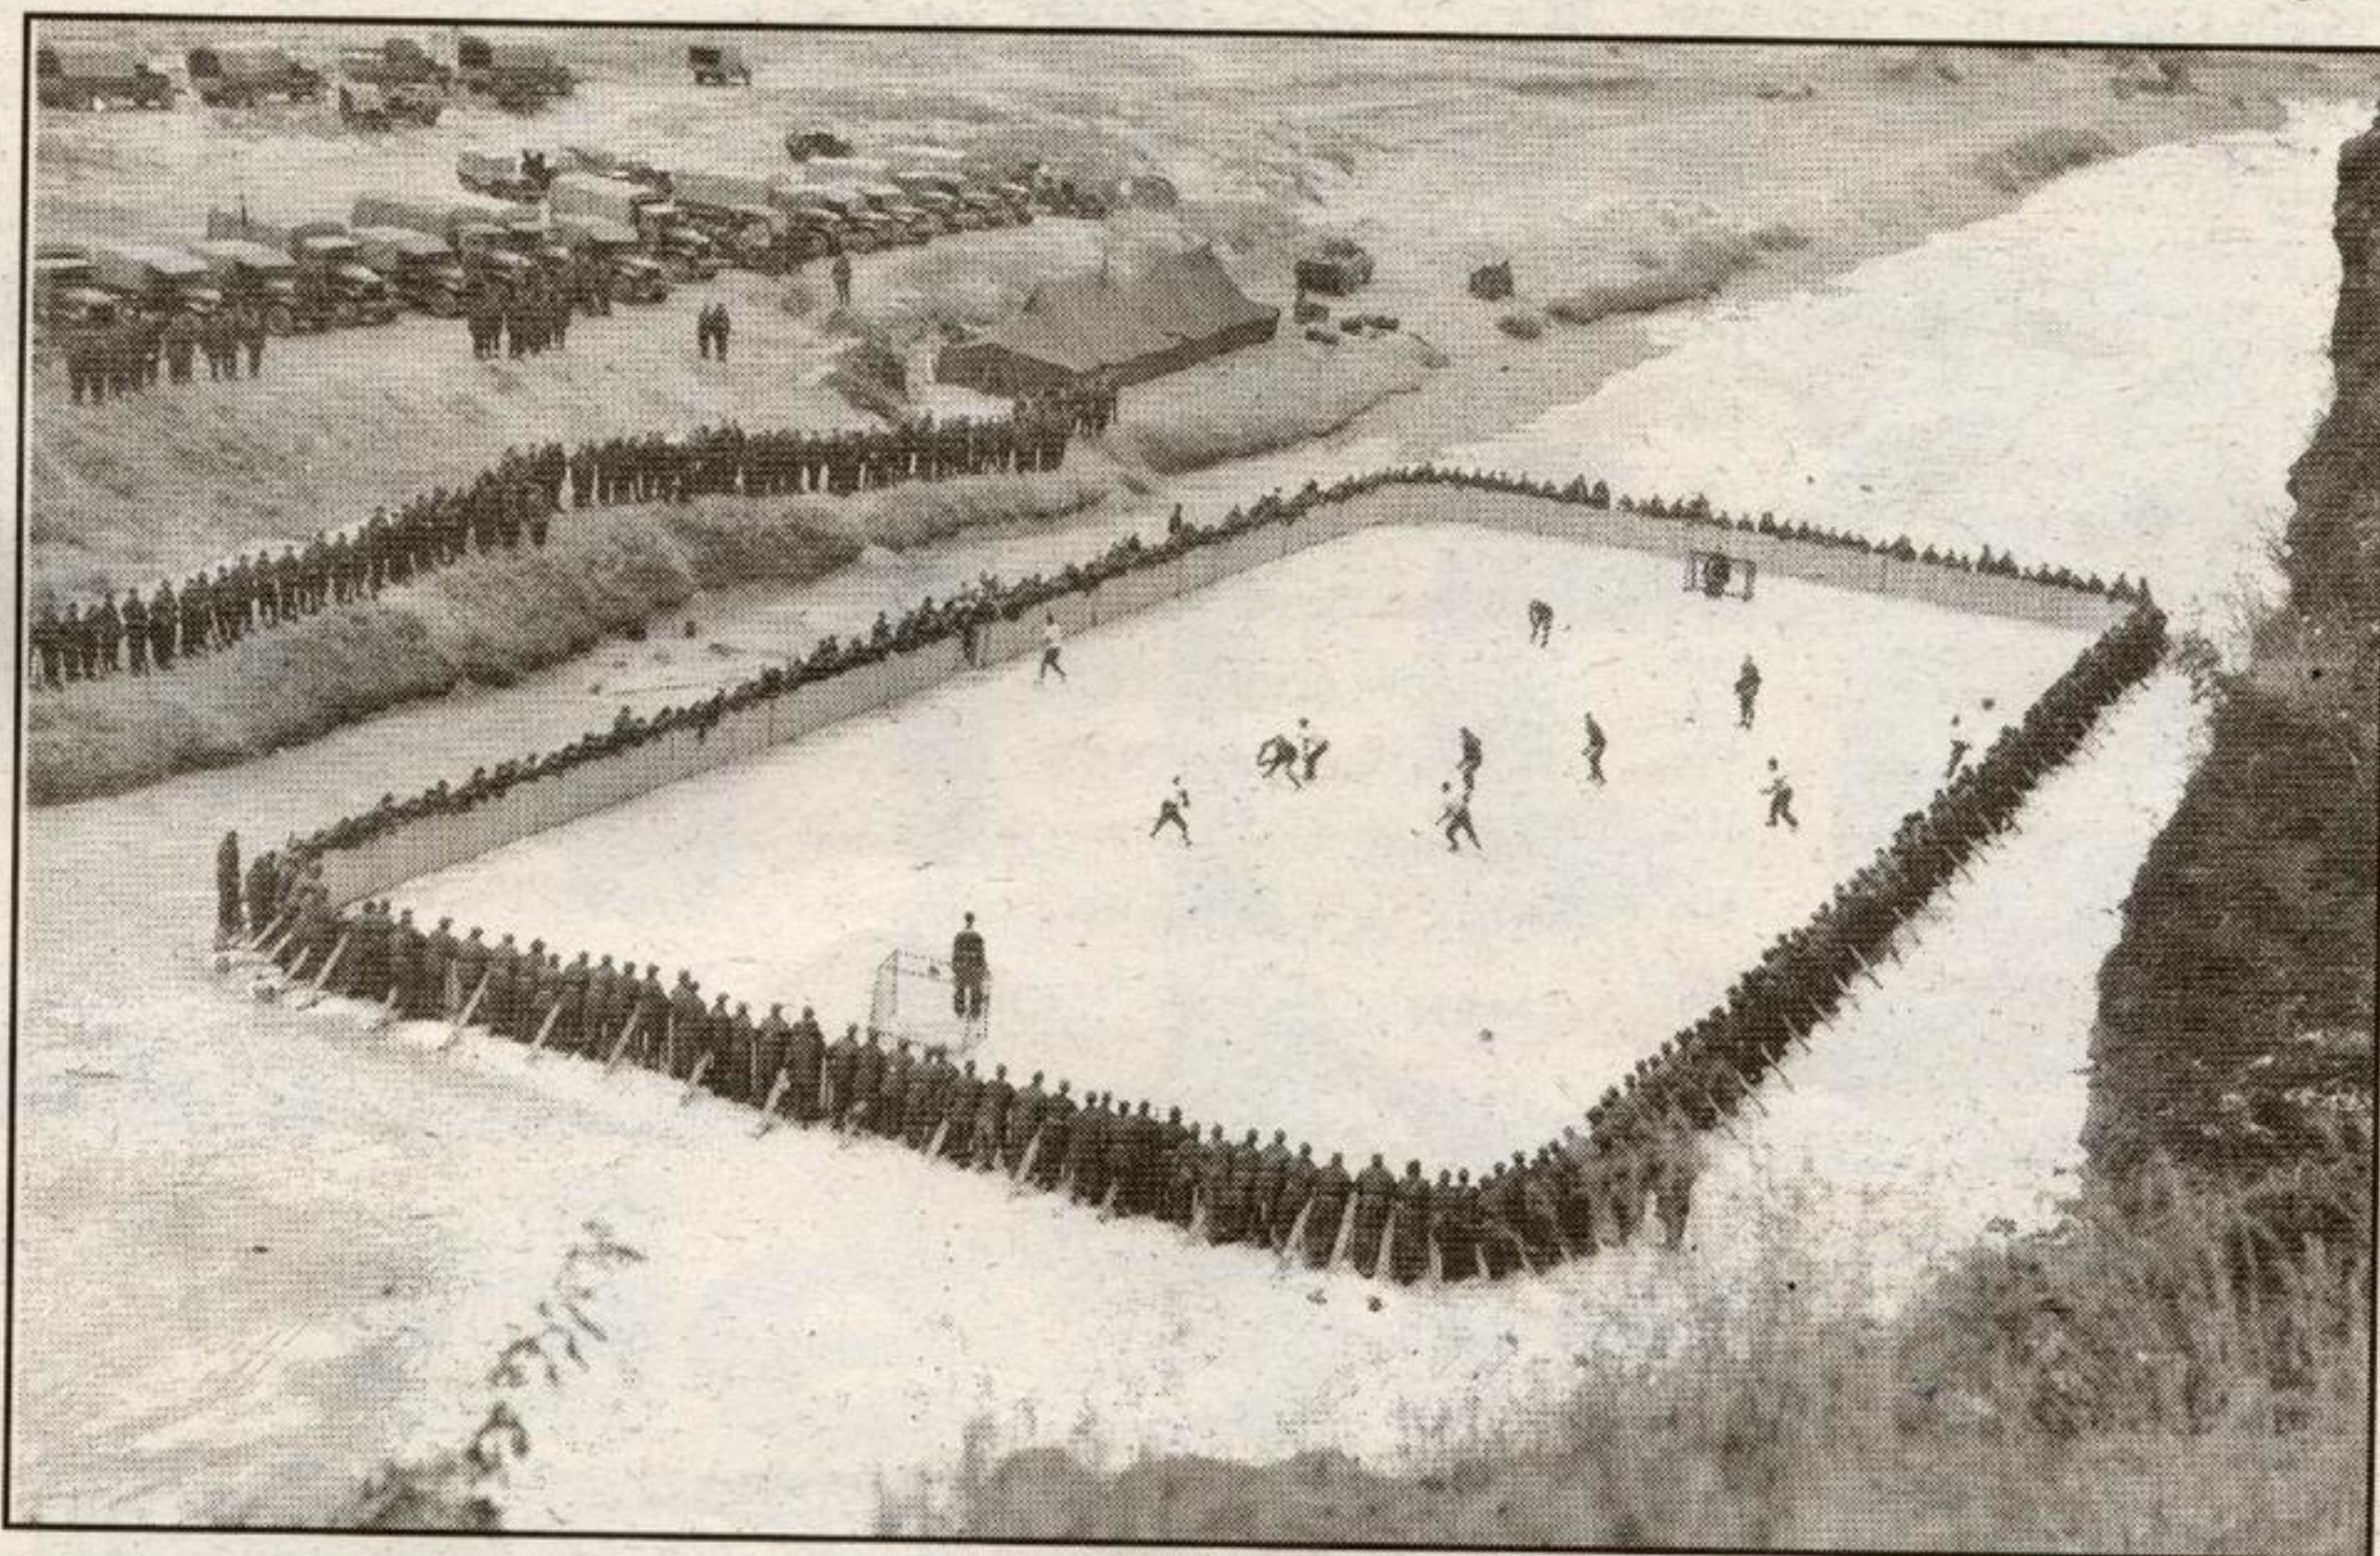

KING AND QUEEN of Saturday's medieval court were Paul d'Entremont and Margaret Brady. They presided over the festivities in aid of refurbishing Acton's old Town Hall. - Ted Tyler photo.

Korean War didn't stop Canadians from playing hockey

WHEN THERE'S ICE THERE'S HOCKEY: 2nd Battalion Royal Canadian Regiment - First official hockey game played by Canadian troops in Korea began when Brig. J. M. Rockingham dropped the puck between team centers: Pte. W. Wolfe and Pte. R. Halley, 4 Feb. 1952. Games were played on a frozen river. (Photo courtesy of National Archives)

HOLDING UP THE BOARDS: Some 400 spectators watch the 26 Canadian Infantry Brigade championship game at "Imjin Gardens." Game won by 3rd Bn. PPCLI, 4-2; it also won first game of best of three series, 5-2, against a team from 1st Bn. Royal 22eme Regt. Jan. 1953 (photo courtesy of National Archives).