BABYSITTING

I am often asked to give an age when a child can act as a babysitter. My answer is "there is no specific age"

A decisions to allow a babysitter to care for your child is one of the most important decisions you will ever make. This is true whether it's one sibling looking after another or a neighbourhood boy or girl; coming into you home.

As a parent it's your job to make enquires to ensure the babysitter is a competent, trustworthy and responsible individual.

We all know 12 or 13 years old girls and boys who demonstrate far more maturity and commonsense than some 19 and 20 year olds.

It's up to you, the parent, to decide who can babysit your child. I would suggest that you speak to other parents, and ask them who provides the best babysitting care for their child. Don't be afraid to ask for references and be sure to interview the prospective babysitter before the required date.

Ensure the babysitter know their responsibilities, and leave information to assist the babysitter in the event something happens.

You want to be able to leave home and not worry, too much, about your children. The time and preparation you invest in seeking out the very babysitter for you child, will be well worth the effort. Next week I will provide some suggestions to assist both the parent and babysitter so everyone can enjoy a relaxing evening.

PS. Now is none to soon to be arranging for a competent babysitter for the Christmas and New Year Season.
