GLT prepares for next production

By PETER ROE

Happy New Year from all of us at Georgetown Little Theatre! We begin the year 1994 by announcing the winners of our Mother Goose coloring contest! Congratulations to Graeme Sodenkamp and Stephanie Smith (5-7 year category), Jenah Thompson and Krystal Westman (8-10 year category), and Gillian Banyard and Jennifer Westman (11-12 year category)! The prizes are puzzles and activity sets generously provided by Georgetown Terminal Warehouses.

Returning our sights to the stage of the John Elliott Theatre, we would like to announce that rehearsals and production work are well underway for GLT's second play of the subscription series, David V. Robison's Promenade All! Boasting a multi-talented cast of four, Promenade depicts four generations of a family from 1895 to 1975, and their button business that grows into a major conglomerate of international proportions.

Be sure to mark your social calendars for February 18, 19, or 23-26, and catch this wonderfully challenging comedy/drama! For more information please call 877-3700.
