Exam week approaching

The dreaded exam week is but four days away and the student body is once again beginning to tremble from stress. I've been there, three to four exams to write in seven days. Luckily this semester I have only the one, which leaves me with a whole week to sit back, relax and thank God I don't have to suffer with my friends.

This has also spared me the two weeks of worrying that comes before exam week when studying or guilt from not studying takes up all my free time. While my friends are studying and/or trying to catch up on things they may have "missed" I've been enjoying two periods a day working at the paper, having lunch, going to English and spending the last period of the day at Pro Shooters playing pool with my Phys-ed class.

That's right, pool. A word to the wise, taking Grade 12 Phys-ed is definitely an asset. It's the most enjoyable, stress-free course one can take. This is due to the fact that the students, in part, are allowed to choose the sports they wish to participate in during the semester; hence the two weeks of pool.

There's nothing quite like ending a stressful day with an hour and ten minutes of lounging around and "shootin' some stick." If the opportunity arrives that you have a choice between taking a spare or a Phys-ed course, trust me Phys-ed is the way to go.

You'll probably endure more pressure during the spare than you would if you were gettin' your butt kicked at pool by Mr. Hall.

Being the only high school in Georgetown has its advantages, not the least of which is a supportive local newspaper.

On behalf of the students, staff and parents of Georgetown District High School, I'd like to thank The Independent/Free Press for its continued coverage of GDHS news.

Highlights for me include Lisa Tallyn's report on GDHS teachers, Janet Baine's articles on board business, Steve LeBlanc's coverage of Rebel sports, and the Independent/Free Press' generous coverage of space to recognize our Commencement award winners.

As well, we continue to enjoy Aaron Hughes' articles and commentary on high school life. Aaron
