Wonderland holds auditions

Producers from Paramount Parks will hold auditions in Oakville, Windsor, London, Toronto, Vaughan, Kingston and Montreal during the Canadian Segment of the North American Talent Search - a wide reaching quest to cast some 600 talented individuals in performance roles and crew positions for five North American theme parks.

The Canadian segment of the search for positions at Paramount Canada's Wonderland only, begins at Sheridan College in Oakville on Monday, Jan. 30 and wraps up at McGill University in Montreal on Tuesday, Feb. 7.

The entire North American Talent Search takes Paramount Parks producers on a tour of 33 cities in four months. On the tour they expect to audition and interview thousands of performers for a variety of entertainment positions including: singers, dancers, actors, costumed character performers, and theatre technicians.

Being selected for a role at

Paramount Parks has far-reaching advantages for anyone interested in pursuing a career in show business. Many Paramount Parks alumni enjoy successful careers in television, film, theatre or music recording and cite their theme park experience as providing a real competitive edge.

Those interested in auditioning should contact the entertainment department at Paramount Canada's Wonderland at (905) 832-7000, ext. 5000.

Hunts head GLT production

Gord and Cathy Hunt are founding members of Georgetown Little Theatre which has flourished since 1960.

Involved in both onstage and backstage activities, Gord was in GLT's first production, Dirty Work at The Crossroads. Cathy's involvement has always been backstage, with one exception, when she made her stage debut as the Queen of Hearts in Mother Goose in
