Wanted: town building inspector

Council members gave the town's building director Henry Tse the go-ahead Monday night to advertise for a building inspector to fill a contract from March 31 through March 30 next year. In a report Tse explained the inspector currently in the job is leaving, but his contract is up in March anyway. He stressed the need to fill the vacancy and extend the contract for another year due to workload in the building department.

Mayor Marilyn Serjeantson said the position should be filled and due to the fact the building department generates money the inspector actually pays for himself.
