Acton business impresses McLeod

"We want the government to maintain a level playing field. We don't want to see the odds stacked against us, but be even for everyone," said Kitson.

McLeod assured Kitson that a Liberal government would not have an industrial strategy that determined who the winners and losers are.

McLeod also wanted Kitson's views on employment equity programs.

"We have a problem with having to lower the pass marks" because someone is a visible minority or female said Kitson. "We would just as soon let talent be a decider," he added.

If the Liberals take power in the province

"we will not be giving you quotas," said McLeod.

Kitson told McLeod the province was doing a good job of handling workplace health and safety training and enforcement.

"So there is a legitimate role for government to play as long as it is done well," said McLeod.

Kitson also stressed the need for easier access for small businesses to capital.

After the discussion McLeod said the message she heard Tuesday was less negative than others. "I hear much more frustration (at other businesses she has visited)," said McLeod. "They say government gets in the way."
