

Unpaid days

Halton public schools will be closed March 20 to 24 because teachers will be taking five unpaid days to comply with the social contract.

Halton teachers must take unpaid days, six for elementary and eight for secondary during this school year. The Ministry sets the target amount that must be reduced from the board's budget. Under the social contract legislation, staff must take unpaid days until the board has reduced teaching staff by 4.75 per cent. Students will still have the same number of days in class (185).

The School Year Calendar for 1995-96 will be approved this spring. Parents are invited to provide input through the survey distributed the schools.
