Realty Supreme moves in

There is a new real estate company in town.

Rose Mary Morris, broker/owner of Realty Executive Supreme, said her company merged with NRS Brand Realty Inc. on April 1.

Thirteen former NRS agents have remained with Realty Executive Supreme.

Morris, who lives in Brampton and owns another Realty Executive office there, said the old NRS office at 45 Mountainview Rd. N. has been completely renovated. She is looking forward to working in Georgetown.

"I have always wanted to make a move to Georgetown," said Morris. "I love Georgetown and believe it is a beautiful community."

The franchise has 268 offices in the U.S., and has been around for 37 years. It is relatively new in Canada, with eleven offices in Vancouver, eight in Calgary and three in Ontario. Morris owns the franchise rights in Ontario.

"We are the most progressive, energetic young company around," said Morris.

"Realty Executive offers wonderfully progressive commission structures and completely independent contract status for agents," said Morris. She added the upshot for clients is the company attracts top producers.

Morris is optimistic about the real estate market.

"I believe Georgetown and Brampton are ready for some major shift in the market. Prices should start to go up very slowly. There are a tremendous amount of people who want to get out of the big city into smaller towns like Georgetown. They like the community spirit."

Realty Executive is open Monday to Friday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and Saturday from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. The phone number is 873-0300.
