Still unbeaten

The GDHS junior rugby squad has jumped out to an early 3-0 record in Halton league play, having taken wins against Milton's E.C. Drury, White Oaks of Oakville and Burlington's Aldershot.

Brad Densmore has led the way for the junior Rebels so far with three tries, while teammates John Moon, Pete Mashinter, Stu Scottford and Jamie Starrett have all stood out as well.

The senior rugby squad has posted one win and one tie so far, both against the E.C. Drury Spartans. Steve Yurichuk and Paul Sandifer have turned in impressive efforts for the seniors.

Despite an 0-2 record, the midgets improved this past week in their 12-5 loss to E.C. Drury. The GDHS midgets held a 5-0 lead with just five minutes to play before giving up the win.

Shawn Dunlop scored the try for the midgets, who lost their opener 20-7 to the Spartans.

Rebels nip Lourdes for relay meet title

By STEVE LeBLANC

Special to The Independent/Free Press

The Georgetown District High School track and field team won their annual Rebel Relays once again this year - but holding onto the title this time around proved to be anything but easy.

Unlike their 1994 showing, in which the Rebels finished more than 200 points ahead of all other schools, GDHS squeaked by Guelph's Lourdes High School Tuesday - by a 486-482 margin.

The Rebel girls finished first with 142 points compared to Lourdes' 95, while the Guelph school won the boys' division by a 104 to 82 verdict. In the field, Georgetown posted a 240-237 win and came up second to Lourdes (46-22) in mixed competition.

Finishing third on the day was Centennial High School from Guelph with 234 points while Oakville's White Oaks scored an even 200 points for fourth spot.

Also competing were Lord Elgin (Burlington), E.C. Drury (Milton), T.A. Blakelock (Oakville), Q.E. Park (Oakville), St. James (Guelph), Morning Star (Toronto) and Burlington Central.

The Rebels managed six first place finishes in the relays, including the midget girls 4x800 metre, the senior boys 4x100m, the midget girls 4x400m, the junior girls 4x400m, the junior boys 4x200m and the junior boys sprint medley.

A total of nine silver medal showings were collected by Georgetown: the midget girls (B squad) 4x800m, the junior boys 4x800m, the senior girls 4x800m, the midget girls (B team) 4x100m, the midget girls (B squad) 4x400m, the senior boys 4x400m, the senior mixed 4x100m, the senior girls sprint medley and the 3200m senior sprint medley.

GDHS runners placed third in: the junior girls 4x800m, the midget boys 4x800m, the senior girls 4x100m, the senior girls 4x400m, the junior girls 4x200m, the senior boys 4x200m, the junior mixed (B team) 4x100m, the open distance medley girls race, the boys open distance medley, the junior girls (B squad) sprint medley and the senior boys sprint medley.

In individual events, a number of Rebel girls stood out with medal winning efforts including Kim Wiltshire, Helen Raynard, Lisa MacDonald, Lisa Earle, Lori Walsh and Erian LeBannister.

Wiltshire was a double gold medal winner, taking first in both the senior triple jump and long jump. Raynard won silver medals in the junior long jump and triple jump, while adding a gold to her collection in the junior shotput.

MacDonald won the senior discus and placed second in the junior discus. She also finished second in the junior javelin. Earle placed first in the midget discus, third in the midget shotput and fourth in the midget javelin.

Lori Walsh won the midget javelin and Erian LeBannister took first in the midget shotput.

In boys' action, Ryan Howatt led the way by picking up three medals - including first place showings in the junior triple jump and high jump and third in the junior long jump.

Brian Mah was first in both the senior javelin and shotput while Matt Brain was first in the senior high jump and third in senior discus. Kevin Taylor took second in senior discus.

The Georgetown Rebels track and field team will now be gearing up for Tuesday's Halton Championships, at Nelson High School in Burlington.
