

ACTON FOR BUSINESS . . . . . ACTON

To Jeff Herrington of Herrington Printing, the word "can't" doesn't exist.

"Can't isn't in our vocabulary. You always can," he says.

Jeff and his wife Claudette have been partners in Herrington Printing since purchasing the business from Jeff's parents four years ago.

Herrington's customers range from individuals needing color copies to corporations requiring four-color process printed brochures. The list of Herrington Printing's media products is very extensive and diversified. Products such as vinyl lettering, rubber stamps, multimedia computer presentations, and product sample kits demonstrate just how far reaching Herrington's abilities are, in providing a client with complete marketing material.

"And it must be said that we can maintain the continuity for our clients, from product to product, since we are involved with such a wide range marketing material production," says Jeff. "We can maintain control of the production cycle from concept to execution."

Herrington's has the full creative services of a marketing firm in house, and can implement graphic design and layout, as well as professionally written marketing material.

Herrington's is very advanced in their pre-press and design facilities, with both Mac and IBM computer design/layout capabilities. Coupled with the accuracy of computer generated film output devices, the image quality is maintained well beyond the more traditional cut and paste techniques.

Jeff has over 17 years experience in the field and is glad to spend time with his clients to help them to choose the best solution for their needs and budget.
