Fun, excitement and entertainment await you at the 1995 Georgetown Fair. That's right! The three-day extravaganza, at the fairgrounds, runs Sept. 8-10 and promises to be "loaded with excitement."

The big attractions at this year's fair kick off Friday night with the introduction of the Fair Ambassador competition at 7 p.m. The competition is open to males and females over the age of 16. Then on to the Monster Truck Show.

Back for a return engagement Saturday afternoon the famous Imperial Hell Drivers. A precision stunt driving team thrilling audiences all over North America. They are scheduled to start their engines at 2:30 p.m. The evening features the Demolition Derby.

Saturday is Family Day and includes The Kinsmen Girls' Softball playoffs, Rotary Bingo and much more. Two local bands will perform during the afternoon; first Neil Cotton and his country western band and then in the late afternoon, The King Beats, a locally based group.

Sunday, will start the day with the ever popular Heavy Horse show and the Demonstration Eight Horse Hitch along with the Pet Show and the Kiddie Peddle Pull and the Paint Horse Show. And for the first time at the fair Dan The Music Man and his oneman children's show.

As you can see this year's fair promises to be the best yet with many new and regular attractions including rides by Conklin Show, agricultural shows including the Junior Dairy Show, Western Horse, English Horse, Light and Pony Show, and the ever popular Heavy Horse Show featuring the magnificent Clydesdale and Belgian Horses, with horses weighing in at over a ton coming from parts of Quebec and Northern Ontario.

The Education Tent, has been expanded to include over 4,000 sq. ft. of educational exhibits for the school children. Several schools in Georgetown have booked time to bring their students to a preview of the tent on Friday.

One of the busiest spots the whole fair weekend is always in the Homecrafts and Exhibitor Building. The fairgoer will see many exhibits from local merchants and craftspeople along with a vast assortment of home baking, jams, pickles and canned fruit as well as handcrafted knitting and sewing items plus many junior exhibits giving young people a chance to exhibit with pride their artwork, baking, flower arranging and sewing.
