

ENERSMART
THE APPLICATION OF IMAGINATION
FOR YOUR HOME

Imagine the magic of fire – appearing at the flick of a switch. It's possible today with a beautiful new Natural Gas fireplace. Now you can cut down on heating bills without chopping down trees or sweeping up ashes. Bring life to the living room. Add romance to the bedroom. Just turn up the fire and take the chill off the morning air, or heat up a cold winter night.

It's easy to convert your old fireplace or add a new one in almost any room you choose. You may not need a chimney – some Natural Gas fireplaces simply vent outside.

Warm up to clean-burning Natural Gas. Choose from a variety of modern and traditional designs.

Act now and make no payment until April '96. Then sit down and relax by the fire while your money is still sitting in the bank. Isn't that a comforting thought?

Put a leash on your dog

Dear editor:

It happened again, and this time instead of just feeling scared, I also got angry. Angry because of the obvious blatant disregard for the peace and safety of others that some of the fellow dog owners of this community exhibit. These irresponsible individuals of whom I speak, are the ones you see walking their canine companions (often with leash in hand) but the only problem is that the dog in question is not at the end of it.

I realize that there are residents who perceive Georgetown to be country living and thus allow their dogs to run free. After all, what could be more pleasing for a dog, than running through a field, down a path or in a park, right?

Admittedly, I too have been tempted to set my own pup free and watch him bounce with joyful contentment, but then I do give myself a reality check and understand that there is a leash law for good reasons. It serves both as protection for the safety of the public and their pets as well as for the unleashed dog too who could run into traffic or just plain run away.

If you profess to love your dog, then prove it by restraining his movement so that you always remain in control of his actions and in effect protect him and all those around you who also have a right to be out there too without fear of ambush. I am acutely aware of the threat of unleashed dogs in our community as my pup has been the unfortunate recipient of two unprovoked attacks as well as a few other close calls.

What will it take to change the diehard "freedom fighters"?

Perhaps a child getting bitten (or worse) and then having to destroy your beloved pet, to begin to realize that this is a dangerous game you're playing. Maybe you'll only wake up when your liberty is challenged as you get charged or sued once a tragedy occurs.

Think about it.
