PREVENT HOME FIRES...

Fire Safety Tips
Most home-heating fires involve portable heaters and space heaters. Room gas heaters and kerosene heaters account for the highest risk or home-heating fire fatalities, but all heaters are dangerous if not used properly.

Shop for safety. Buy only heaters that bear the label of an independent testing lab. Look for heaters with automatic shut-off safety features.
Take care of your heating equipment. Have wood and coal stoves and chimneys inspected and cleaned regularly by a professional. Have all heating equipment installations inspected by local building and fire officials.
Give space heaters space. Keep all combustible materials away from portable heaters. Place heaters at least three feet (one meter) away from walls and furniture.
Fuel when cool. Add fuel to kerosene heaters only when the heater is completely cool. Heaters should be fueled only in a well ventilated area away from flames or heat sources. Use only the type of kerosene specified by the manufacturer. Never use gasoline.

... Lend Me Your Ears
 By Cory Soal
R.H.A.D.
HOW LOUD IS IT?
The Occupational Safety and Health Administration, a government agency, has set noise limits of 90 decibels for eight hours of work, and 95 decibels for four hours. But many experts believe that these levels are unacceptable. Some even believe that if you have to raise your voice to be heard by someone three feet away - which happens when background noise is about 45 to 50 decibels - it's a sign that your immediate environment is hazardous.
Be aware of the decibel levels of common everyday sounds. Keep in mind that going up ten decibels doubles the loudness of a sound!

SOUND	DECIBEL LEVEL
The rustling of wind through a tree	20
A library	40
Normal conversation	50 to 60
A ringing telephone	60
Hair dryer	60 to 80
Vacuum cleaner	60 to 85
Crowded city street	90
Power lawn mower	80 to 95
Food disposal	65 to 95
Honking Horns	105
Jackhammer	110
Subway train, including screech noise	80 to 115
Stereo at full volume	120
Jet takeoff	130 to 140
