A third period surge helped the Georgetown Raiders tie one on with the Mississauga Chargers Thanksgiving Monday, in a 7-7 final at Westwood Arena.

While the Chargers were last to score, Georgetown fought their way back from a 6-3 deficit with four unanswered goals around the midway mark of the final frame.

Mississauga led 3-1 and 5-3 after the first two periods. The draw gives the Raiders a 2-5-1 record.

"It was good game, but we're still not playing strong enough defense," said Raiders' General Manager Jules Russiani. "We have to tighten up in our own end, some of the goals they (Mississauga) were scoring came on the second, third or fourth shot.

"We've proven we can score goals, now we have to start preventing them."

Russiani did credit newcomer Ryan Hall with a strong offensive showing Monday. Hall, a winger from Stoney Creek, collected two goals including a third period powerplay tally that started the comeback.

"He's very tough to move. We just put him in front of their net, and it resulted it two goals," Russiani added.

Backstopping the Raiders was Jonathan McCarthy, who faced a total of 61 shots on net including a handful during the five-minute sudden death overtime span. McCarthy has been between the pipes for all six of Georgetown's points, including the season opening overtime loss to Oakville.

Also coming up with a big game was captain David Bouskill, who scored once in the third and helped set up two others. Returning from a shoulder injury, Steve Guiney notched the seventh goal and helped set up the sixth.

Picking up the other tallies were Brad Cripps, Rob Crawford and Sandro Mignosa. Counting two assists each were Dave D'Amizio, Will Pomp, Greg Martin and J.P. DiFazio - in his second game back.

Missing Monday were Victor Cizmarik, Domenic Guglielmi and Dan Gilpin.

Scoring two each for Mississauga were Glen Bradbury and John Guinyou while Jamie Balway, Sean Klaver and Mike Buchanan potted singles.

The Raiders took on the Blades in Oakville Friday and hosted Brampton last night (Saturday) at Alcott. host the Milton Merchants next Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m.
