Special to The Independent/Free Press

The lights being hung and focused, sets are being painted, shoes are being shined, and costumes are being pressed as the members of Georgetown's Globe Productions are busy getting ready for opening night of their fall show, well-known Broadway favorite, 42nd Street.

42nd Street is a singing and dancing extravaganza — thirties style. As the show opens, Julian Marsh (Paul Bell) is in the process of casting a new show, Pretty Lady, under the close scrutiny of its writers, Maggie and Bert (Nanci McNeil, Norm Douglas). Unfortunately, would-be-star Peggy Sawyer (Allyson Tracey) arrives late and misses the audition, but our romantic lead, Billy (Bob Gelaznikas) tries to help her see the producer and Maggie and the girls of the show, particularly Annie (Jane Adair), are quick to see her talent and do their best to get her cast in the show.

Julian's biggest worry however is the show's star, Dorothy Brock (Susan Lawrenson) who hasn't had a hit in 10 years. His hands are tied however, because the show's major backer is her sugar daddy, Abner Dillon (Gord MacLeod). To make matters worse, Dorothy's true love, Pat Denning (Jim Kinnie) shows up and of course, further complications arise. And for the next two and a half hours, the cast and crew sing and dance their way through all the difficulties that arise in trying to produce a Broadway show.

It is a show guaranteed to send you home singing and dancing with such Broadway favorites as Lullaby of Broadway, We're in the Money, Dames, and Shuffle Off to Buffalo to mention a few.

42nd Street opens at the John Elliott Theatre in Georgetown on November 16 at 8 p.m. and runs November 16, 17, 18, 23, 24, 25, 29 and 30 and December 1 and 2 at 8 p.m., with a matinee on November 26 at 2 p.m. Tickets are $15 and are available by calling the theatre box office at (905) 877-3700.
