Murder is a Game for Caledon Townhall Players

February 28, the laughter begins at the Caledon Townhall Players production of Murder Is A Game.

This fast-paced mystery comedy centres on two dried-up mystery writers enticed to spend a weekend at an old mansion as hosts to a collection of murder mystery characters hired for the weekend.

The question is which characters are real?

Which story is real and who is the murder victim?

The characters are larger than life and the lines will keep you laughing and puzzled right to the end.

The mystery writers, Toby and Sloan Bigelow, are played by longtime member Laura Bishop and Doug Maund. Their quick banter and delight with each other is in the style of Lucy and Desi and an absolute pleasure to watch.

The cast of mystery characters are played by Tom Pratt, Sue Jennings, Leona Onciul, Philip Merch, and Linda Smith. The Bigelow's publisher and the coordinator of all this madness is played by Jane Howorun.

The hilarious script by Fred

Carmichael is filled with twists and turns guaranteed to keep our audience puzzled and laughing right to the end. Director Mary Baxter says the cast has worked incredible hard defining these wonderful characters. As the play progresses the layers of these characters are revealed bit by bit. This complicates the mystery of who is real, who is playing a role and was their really a murderer in the house?

Preview Night is February 28 and Opening Night is Friday, March 1. The run dates are March 2, 3, 7-10, 14-16. The evening shows are at 8:15 p.m. and the Sunday matinee is at 2:15 p.m.
