ASSIC contributes to information directory

In 1994, the four Halton Information Providers undertook to publish, without seed funds, the Halton Community Services Directory, a directory that includes information about the government agencies and non-profit organizations that serve the citizens of Halton.

Not only were there enough copies sold within the first month to pay the printer, by the end of the second month it was sold out!

In February, the second edition was delivered by the printer. All the information in the book has been completely updated and the index has been improved.

However, if you are planning to get a copy, don't delay — several hundred were presold before going to print. As before, the directory includes addresses, telephone numbers and a brief description of the services of over 350 organizations which serve Halton.

It is of importance to anyone dealing with people and people-problems, particularly social workers, doctors, clergy, nurses, educators, etc., and an invaluable asset to those looking for employment or volunteer positions in related fields.

The "Teal Book" sells for $25 if picked up and $30 if mailed to you. Copies are available at any of the four community information centres:

- Acton Support Services and Information Centre (ASSIC) (519) 853-3310
- Information Burlington (905) 639-4212
- Milton Community and Information Services (905) 875-4636
- Information Oakville (905) 815-2046.

How many experts does it take to fix all your natural gas equipment and appliances?
Just one.

Imagine, Jane. They can even fix our central air conditioner.
