

A new Parent-Child drop-in centre opens in Glen Williams.

Parent-Child Centre expands

The Georgetown Parent-Child Centre (GPCC) first opened its doors on April 5, 1988. Since then the GPCC has grown, serving approximately 250 families. On April 9, the GPCC will launch its first community outreach pilot project in Glen Williams with the support of St. Alban's Anglican Church.

The centre will be in the church hall and be open on Tuesdays and Thursdays, 10 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. Parent and caregivers with children, aged birth to six can attend throughout the morning to enjoy a variety of activities including crafts, storytime, and circletime. The centre is a non-structured environment allowing parents to interact with their children, network with other parents and caregivers or make use of resources.

The centre will be an extension of the existing GPCC which will continue to be at St. Andrew's Church, Mountainview Rd., Georgetown.
