Police Blotter

Break and enter
A Georgetown man found without a jacket and with cut hands was charged with break, enter and intent to commit theft near midnight Thursday, police said. They were called to a Main St. S. Georgetown store after an alarm went off. Police found a glass window had been broken and a jacket was found inside the building. Police found the cash register had been opened, but there was no money inside it. According to the report, they searched the area and stopped a man walking through the parking lot on Wesleyan St.

Shed damaged
Someone kicked open a metal garden shed at the back of a McIntyre Cres. property sometime between noon and 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, police said. Nothing was taken.

Hubs gone
Two four-wheel drive wheel hubs were taken from a 1989 Ford Bronco parked in a Guelph St. parking lot between April 15 and 26, police said. Value of the hubs is about $800.

Warning to merchants
Area merchants are being warned to be on the look out for counterfeit $10-bills. One was accepted at a variety store on Hwy. 25 near 15 Sideroad on Saturday, police said. Others have been found in Toronto, Peel, Barrie and Oakville. The bills appear to have been photocopies and have the same serial number.
