HOME GARDENERS START EARLY

It's the twitching of the green thumb at this time of the year that usually gets us motivated to do some outdoor gardening.

This is the time for the trimming of privet and box hedges. Remember that they should be slightly wider at the bottom than at the top. This will allow the sun to reach the lowest leaves and keep the plants bushy from the ground up.

If you are sure that frost is over for the spring, which is when your bulbs have shown four or five inches of growth, it is time to remove all the dead leaves and debris from around the perennial plants in the garden. A general cleanup always makes the garden feel better and helps to awaken the whole garden.

It is quite possible that your Easter lily will bloom again this year. Cut the blooms off when they fade, keep it watered, and when frost is finished, plant the lily against the house in the sun, and you'll see Easter lilies again by this fall.

This is also a good time to repot your palms and rubber plants, just before active new growth gets started. Chances are they've become root-bound and may be too large for their pots. This is also the time to start your tuberous begonias if they're to be ready for this year's parade of colour.
