

Doctors may stop seeing new patients

He said in its counter offer the OMA said it, "would take an active role in solving the under-served area problem" as long as the government enacted the part of its offer calling for a reduction in the clawback imposed on doctors from $10 to $2.90 per $100 billed. He added the government also has to agree not to issue arbitrary billing numbers.

"That is not the solution to the problem," said Halparin.

Halparin added the government has to stop allowing schools and businesses to send people to the doctors.

"If they are going to let all these people do this, then they (the government) should have to pay for it."

He said health card fraud also has to be dealt with.

"The government has just handed the doctors the bill and the blame," said Halparin.

Credit Union Day

Halton Community Credit Union celebrated Credit Union Day recently with cake for its customers. Throughout the week the Credit Union raised money for United Way and Ronald McDonald House. On hand to celebrate the day were from left, member service reps Samantha Pyke, Anne Cross and manager Marlene Bayko.
