

While most people know about the hazards of drinking and driving, many fail to recognize the signs of intoxication in themselves.

That's why it's important to remember that even "a few beers" can impair your judgement or slow your reaction time. And that's why, if you've been drinking. It's best to let someone else do the driving even though you may be feeling fine.

This holiday season, we'd like to remind you to exercise caution on the roads and to look out for your fellow man by refusing to let anyone who's intoxicated get behind the wheel.

Wishing A Happy and Safe New Year To All

This message of good wishes for 1997 and concern for your safety is brought to you by
