Georgetown Children's Chorus to sing Broadway favorites

There will be 36 children performing in the Kids on Broadway show that opens April 10 at the John Elliott Theatre.

Presented by the Georgetown Children's Chorus, the show will feature solos and small groups of choristers featuring some of the best of Broadway music including, Les Mis, West Side Story, Oliver, The Music Man and many more. The choir wanted the show to represent a large number of musicals and many of the songs were suited to solo performances.

"This is an opportunity for kids to experience the thrill of a solo. In many cases, we split the songs up, so that each child can sing for two performances. Our goal is to involve as many children as possible," said conductor and music director, A. Dale Wood.

Audiences will also delight in the performance of the Cherub Choir (ages 4, 5 & 6) singing about their Favorite Things and the Joseph choir that auditioned with 100 other choirs in the Joseph Dreamcoat Challenge.

Tickets for the April 10, 11, and 12, Kids on Broadway shows, are now on sale at the Theatre Box Office (873-3700), $7 adults, $5 seniors and children.
