

To minister of natural resources Chudleigh named parliamentary assistant

Halton North MPP Ted Chudleigh has been appointed to the position of parliamentary assistant to the Minister of Natural Resources.

Chudleigh, who is excited about the new job which he said will be "fairly focused on natural resources and the environmental area," will take over the position this week.

"I am looking forward to serving my constituents and the people of the province of Ontario to the best of my capacity in this new role with the Ministry," said Chudleigh.

TED CHUDLEIGH

"There are some interesting challenges and opportunities that we will face in the future regarding protection, preserving and developing Ontario's natural resources."

Chudleigh said he understands he will be involved in various areas of the ministry including the Niagara Escarpment.

"I have a deep commitment (to) and always loved the escarpment," said Chudleigh.

He said in his new role he would likely have input into appointments to the Niagara Escarpment Commission.

Chudleigh said he would like to see a series of parks connected by trails along the escarpment and added changes are needed to aspects of the escarpment development act that he believes impact on personal property rights. He said a Milton area church within the escarpment area has been trying with no luck to slightly expand its parking lot for the past nine years.

"Those things are wrong and have to change," said Chudleigh.
