Town okays traffic changes

Halton Hills council has approved a number of traffic control bylaw changes. The changes are required due to public requests, staff investigations, new subdivision developments, or past bylaw discrepancies.

According to a report by Bob Butrym, the town's traffic co-ordinator, the new design of the John Street's upcoming reconstruction will require new traffic controls. Currently there are 225 cars per hour in p.m. peak time so parking will be prohibited on the south side of John St. between Mountainview Rd. and Victoria St. A new sidewalk will be on the south side of the road. As well, an all-way stop will be created on Victoria St. at John St.

An all-way stop will also be created on Rexway Dr. at Prince Charles Dr. Butrym's report stated that new traffic counts and collision reviews now suggest that putting an all-way stop at this location would be beneficial.

The reconstruction of Main St. in Georgetown has led to changes in the availability of on-street parking— metered and non-metered. The changes include extensions of no parking zones on the east and west sides of Main St. between Cindebarke Terrace and Park Ave. Metered parking in Georgetown will be removed from about a 30-metre stretch of road on Main St. near Church St., but will be added to about a 40-metre stretch on the east side.

A stop sign will be added on Oak St. at Early St. in Georgetown.

In Acton, the pedestrian crossover crosswalk on Main St. in Acton at School Lane will be removed because of the recent installation of the IPS — the Intersection Pedestrian Signal.

As well there will be increased parking prohibition zones on the west side of Churchill Rd. between Queen St. and 30 metres north of McDonald Blvd.; on the east side of Willow St.; on the south side of Agnes St., 60 metres west of Elgin and on the east side of John St. between Agnes and Church Sts.

Stops signs will be added on Dairy Dr. at Wallace St. — a new subdivision in Acton.
